Major = 30 credits, comprised of:

- GEOG 040, GEOG 050, GEOG 070, and one geographic methods from the series GEOG 081, 085, 184, 185, 186, 192, 202, 281, 287.
  - 9 credits at or above 100-level
  - 6 credits of 200-level GEOG courses
  - One additional GEOG course, any level (can include TAP courses)
- Only 3 credits of GEOG 191 (Internship) can count toward the 100-level requirement.

NOTES:

Introductory courses GEOG 040, 060, and 081 are offered every semester; GEOG 070 is offered once a year.

A mix of GEOG 100-level courses is planned for every semester, including topical, regional, and methods courses.

At least one 200-level course in Human Geography/Nature-Society is offered every semester;

At least one 200-level course in Physical Geography/Advanced methods is offered every semester.

The department is very supportive of travel courses and study abroad.

GEOG 190-International Field Study courses are offered in the summer and during the winter quarter session.

The department is very supportive of internships, independent study, and honors thesis work.

For students completing a 6-credit honors thesis, three of those credits may be used toward the 200-level seminar requirement.

There are no formal 'tracks' for students interested in Physical or Human Geography, but the flexibility of the major requirements allows students to self-design a course of study that focuses on one or the other side of the discipline.
