This is merely one suggested route to completing a history degree with a European concentration. The path followed by students will depend on AP credits, study-abroad travel plans, etc. There is also great flexibility in the major and many courses are transnational, meaning that they might count for credit in more than one geographical area (e.g. HST 113–Global History in the Age of Total War; HST 160–Sex in Modern History; etc). In concentrating on Europe, a student might choose to focus on eastern or western Europe or even on a specific country (e.g. France, Germany, Great Britain, or Russia).

Europe Concentration = 15 credits in European history courses, including one 200-level seminar; at least 6 credits in American History, and at least 6 credits in Africa/Asia/Middle East Global History.

MAJOR = 33 credits to include:

One introductory-level survey course (HST 009-068),
HST 101,

At least 15 credits of 100-level or above HST courses,

At least 3 credits of 200-level or above HST courses

9 additional HST credits at any level,

Complete one of three Concentrations.

Restrictions:

No more than 6 credits of AP or IB History can count toward the 33 credits required by the major.

No more than 3 credits of AP or IB History can count toward a concentration.

No more than 6 credits of Internships, Research, Thesis credits, Independent Study credit may count toward the 33 credits required of the major.

Distribution Requirements: B.A. degrees in the College of Arts and Sciences require completion of 7 distribution categories:

Fine Arts: one 3-credit course in a fine arts discipline

Foreign Language: two 3-credit courses in the same foreign language

Humanities: two 3-credit courses in a humanities discipline

Natural Sciences: two courses from specific departments; one course must include a lab

Literature: One 3-credit course in literature

Mathematical Sciences: One math course number 17 or higher, or Statistics 51 or higher, or Computer Science 008 or higher, or Philosophy 13, or Anthropology 113/Linguistics 163, or Linguistics 075

Social Sciences: Two 3-credit courses in social science disciplines
