Bow-Drill Fire-by-Friction Workshop

at the UVM Jericho Research Forest

Saturday, November 14th, 2009

12:00-2:00 pm with Wood-fired Flatbread to Follow

This outdoor skills workshop will be led by skilled trackers and naturalists Mike Kessler, Chad Wawrzyniak, and friends. Learn how to start a fire using natural materials and your own friction. Participants will be guided in the process and then will have the opportunity for hands-on practice under supervision. Jericho wood-fired flatbread will be served after the workshop.

Free and Open to the Public!

Directions to the UVM Jericho Research Forest:
