Join us for our 2nd Annual Grain Research Tour. Guest speaker, Julie Dawson, is a postdoctoral research associate at Cornell University, and will cover the basics of on-farm variety trials and variety selection for wheat and other small grains. Researchers and farmers who have been participating in on-farm trials and selection will describe their experience and provide practical guidance. This is a great opportunity to learn new information and get involved yourself!

We will also be touring our research trials, which includes over 1,000 plots of spring and winter wheat, heirloom wheat, spring and winter barley, flax and oats. We also have small grain trials on planting dates, weed control and organic fertility.

Come and taste breads made with wheat from our heirloom variety trials. Tasting will be led by Randy George of Red Hen Baking Company.
