

Introduction to Service-Learning

A Workshop with the Office of Community-
University Partnerships & Service-Learning
(CUPS)

Wednesday, September 23, 2-4pm
Writing in the Disciplines Seminar Room,
Bailey Howe 302

Interested in the idea of incorporating real-world projects into the courses you teach? Want to work with community organizations to do projects that meet community needs AND help your students learn? This workshop will offer a general overview of service-learning pedagogy, examples of successful courses, and an introduction to support services offered by the CUPS Office. Time will be provided for you to ask questions specific to your interests and to get feedback and advice from CUPS staff.

Please RSVP to partnerships@uvm.edu by Monday, September 21st.
