RE: Sexual Assault Information and Resources

As we are keenly aware, in the last several weeks, sexual assault and inappropriate sexual behavior have captured the nation’s attention. At this time of heightened awareness of the pervasive and destructive impacts of sexual assault, it is important that our community be reminded of the University’s commitment to eliminating, preventing, and addressing the effects of sexual violence, harassment, and misconduct, while providing a fair and impartial process for investigation and adjudication of reported incidents. Regardless of one’s background or perspective, we should all agree that these are critically serious issues requiring urgent attention in our society.

It is also important to continue to inform our community about the support resources available on campus for those who have been personally impacted by this reprehensible behavior. Those who perpetuate it should be held accountable, and those who are affected deserve our full support, care, and understanding.
