Message from the President

Dear Graduates, Families, Friends, and Colleagues,

We gather here today to celebrate the University of Vermont Class of 2007 and the many accomplishments of our graduates.

Commencement is a time to look back on our shared experiences and to look ahead. Your years at UVM have included many memorable moments. As a campus we have gathered in Ira Allen Chapel and Patrick Gym to hear distinguished speakers such as Barack Obama, Antonin Scalia, Nobel Peace Prize laureates Bishop Desmond Tutu and Elie Wiesel. We’ve been privileged to view the work of major artists such as Warhol, Goya, and Rembrandt in world-class exhibits at the Fleming Museum. During your years here we have launched an Honors College, built a beautiful new residential learning complex, added greatly to our facilities at Trinity Campus, and nearly completed a new student center. I’m certain that it hasn’t always been easy to be a student in the midst of such transformation. Your patience throughout these important construction projects will be rewarded, I hope, when you look back with pride on the enhanced value of your alma mater in the years to come.

During your years here our campus has come together in moments of triumph. This season’s outstanding run for the men’s basketball team couldn’t help but bring back memories of the stirring, unforgettable moment when the Catamounts upset mighty Syracuse in the 2005 NCAA tourney.

And we have come together in tragedy following the death of Professor James Petersen in August 2005 and last fall’s terrible loss of student Michelle Gardner-Quinn, a member of the Class of 2007. The students and faculty who came to know Michelle in her time on our campus remember her as a caring, vibrant, committed young woman, all that we hope our students will be. Michelle is in our hearts today.

There are many people to thank on a day as momentous as graduation. It is a time to recognize the contributions of our extraordinary faculty, who in many respects simply are the University, and of our talented and dedicated staff, indispensable colleagues on whom we all depend.

The rich, complex community of the University of Vermont stretches far beyond the boundaries of our campus. The UVM family includes more than 100,000 graduates, including nearly 90,000 living alumni whose ranks will swell today. The Alumni Association will keep you connected and informed through the Vermont Quarterly, alumni events, and more.

Families and friends, thank you for the support and care you have provided the graduates throughout their time at the University. You share in their accomplishment and success. On behalf of all of my colleagues, please allow me to say that we feel deeply moved and privileged to share this moment of pride and achievement with you.

Lewis, whose skull was fractured. The event became known as “Bloody Sunday.” The Selma to Montgomery marches marked a turning point in the Civil Rights Movement and ultimately resulted in the passing of the historic Voting Rights Act of 1965.

Lewis later became director of the Voter Education Project, and during his leadership, VEP added nearly four million minorities to the rolls. In 1977, President Jimmy Carter appointed him director of ACTION, the federal volunteer agency. Following service on the Atlanta City Council, he was elected to Congress in 1986, representing Atlanta and nearby areas. In November 2006, Esquire magazine named him “one of the Nine Pillars of Congress,” describing him as “a beacon of probity in the House.”

Among his numerous awards, Lewis received the Martin Luther King Jr. Non-Violence Peace Prize and the John F. Kennedy Profile in Courage Award for lifetime achievement. His autobiography, written with Michael D’Orso, Walking With the Wind: A Memoir of the Movement, was published in 1998.

At the groundbreaking of the King memorial on the National Mall last November, Lewis said of King: “He inspired us to get in trouble, but it was good trouble, necessary trouble.” The King monument, he said, reminds us “that it is better to love and not to hate; it is better to reconcile and not divide; it is better to build and not tear down.”

Henry Louis Gates Jr.
Doctor of Letters

Henry Louis Gates Jr., a world-renowned scholar, teacher, literary critic, and author has been innovative and prolific, a disabuser of the prejudicial status quo for all things African and African American, and an eloquent educator in all media.

Gates’s titles and projects hint at the complexity of his interests: He is the Alphonse Fletcher University Professor, the W.E.B. Du Bois Professor of the Humanities, and director of the W.E.B. Du Bois Institute for African and African American Research, all at Harvard; he is editor-in-chief of the Oxford African American Studies Center, the first comprehensive scholarly online resource in this field; he has been a MacArthur Foundation Scholar (1981); he has written, produced, and hosted documentaries on PBS and the BBC, including the critically acclaimed “African American Lives”; his 13th and most recent book is Finding Oprah’s Roots; and last year, he was inducted into the Sons of the American Revolution. When Time magazine chose Gates as one of the “Twenty-Five Most Influential Americans” in 1997, it wrote: “Combine the braininess of the legendary black scholar W.E.B. Du Bois and the chutzpah of P.T. Barnum, and the result is Henry Louis Gates Jr.”

Gates, who was born in West Virginia, graduated with a B.A. summa cum laude in history from Yale University in 1973. He earned his master’s and doctoral degrees in English literature from Clare College at the University of Cambridge, where mentor and Nigerian writer Wole Soyinka persuaded Gates to study literature. In 1989, he won the American Book Award for The Signifying Monkey: A Theory of Afro-American Literary Criticism. In 2000, he and Cornel West wrote the widely acclaimed The African American Century: How Black Americans Have Shaped Our Country. Africana: The Encyclopedia of the African and African American Experience, a collaboration with K. Anthony Appiah, was published also on a CD-ROM as Encarta Africana by Microsoft.

Gates’s catalog of honors includes the National Humanities Award, presented by President Bill Clinton in 1998. His induction last year into the Sons of the American Revolution was perhaps one of the more surprising events in his honor-studded life. He learned of his Revolutionary War lineage while filming his PBS documentary, “African American Lives,” an investigation of the ancestry of eight notable African Americans using DNA and genealogical research. “You could have knocked me over with a feather,” Gates said of his personal discovery.

Gates is best known, however, for proposing a Black literary canon. “We have to conceive a new aesthetic status for American art in all of its facets,” he said. In The New York Times Book Review, he wrote, “There can be no doubt that white texts inform and influence black texts (and vice versa), so that a thoroughly integrated canon of American literature is not only politically sound, it is intellectually sound…”

Jackie M. Gribbons
Doctor of Laws

When Jackie Gribbons came to UVM in 1966 as dean of women, neither she nor the university realized that she would be the last person to hold that position. The academic organizational climate had changed nationally, and by 1975, positions as deans of men and women were fading as campus structures evolved. In every way, the change was serendipitous for UVM. Gribbons’s service and influence on campus spread wider and grew deeper.

Following her first tenure, Gribbons assumed the challenging position of UVM’s first coordinator of Title IX, responsible for bringing the university into compliance with this landmark federal legislation renown for ensuring equal opportunities in collegiate athletics.

For the next eighteen years, Gribbons’s talents would be called on in a variety of positions – assistant to the executive vice president, assistant to the vice president for administration, student grievance coordinator, senior associate to the senior vice president, and director of staff professional development. For many of those years, she was the highest-ranking female administrator at the university.

While she was still dean of women, however, Gribbons was instrumental in the creation of a graduate program in higher education and student affairs administration (HESA) that would become her outstanding legacy. As a charter member of the HESA faculty, in the College of Education and Social Services, she served as course instructor, faculty advisor, and coordinator of the program’s graduate internships. She is recognized nationwide for including in the HESA curriculum a campus practicum requirement for all graduate students.

UVM’s HESA program has been ranked fourth in the country in the graduate preparation of higher education and student affairs administrators. When she retired from her administrative post in 1993, Gribbons continued to teach and advise in the HESA program until 2006.

She has held numerous leadership positions, including president of the National Association of Women in Education and membership on the board of directors of the Vermont YWCA. Not to be overlooked is her longstanding and tireless support of UVM’s women’s basketball program.

In addition to the wide recognition of her work – from the American Council on Education, Who’s Who Among College and University Administrators, the World’s Who’s Who of Women, among them – Gribbons has been honored by three awards named for her: the Jackie M. Gribbons Leadership Award, presented by the Vermont Chapter of the American Council on Education; the Jackie Gribbons Practica Supervision Excellence Award, presented by HESA; and the Jackie M. Gribbons Panhellenic Award, presented by Bowling Green State University.

Leonard Miller
Doctor of Laws

Leonard Miller ’51 began life modestly in Burlington’s Old North End, but, with intelligence and drive, he shaped an extraordinary career in real estate development and an equally outstanding record in philanthropy. At the celebration of his 55th UVM class reunion, Miller announced a $5 million gift to support the university’s Center for Holocaust Studies, an area of abiding focus for him and his wife, Carolyn Rosen Miller, who died in 2006.

The Millers made their home in Florida, where, in addition to his real estate career – he is the retired vice president and director of Pasadena Homes, Inc. in Hollywood, Florida – Miller also served as the mayor of Indian Creek Village. Carolyn was a highly successful realtor and entrepreneur. Both were strong supporters of UVM’s Center for Holocaust Studies prior to their latest gift. They established the Leonard and Carolyn Miller Endowment, which provides programmatic support and funds for the Miller Symposia, held in alternate years.

UVM’s Center for Holocaust Studies celebrates and perpetuates the achievement and legacy of Raul Hilberg, author of The Destruction of the European Jews, widely regarded among scholars as the seminal work on the Holocaust. Hilberg taught at UVM from 1956 to 1991 and initiated Holocaust studies. The center offers an academic minor in Holocaust Studies, teacher training, seminars, and public lectures and publications.

“Growing up in Burlington’s Old North End, I would never have dreamed that some day I could do something meaningful to assure that the horrors of the Holocaust would not be forgotten,” Miller said when he announced his gift.

The Millers’ gift will support the renovation of Billings Library as a permanent home for the Center and will endow two new professorships in Holocaust Studies. The new Center will be named the Carolyn and Leonard Miller Center for Holocaust Studies. Additionally, the renovation will provide a new home for UVM’s Center for Research on Vermont and the UVM Libraries’ Special Collections division. Billings, designed by Henry Hobson Richardson, the foremost architect of his day, was dedicated in 1885 as the university library.

Miller, ever grateful for UVM’s Wilbur Fund assistance that enabled him to complete his UVM education, has been a fundraising leader for the UVM Fund, a member of the Wilbur Society, the Holocaust Studies advisory board, and his reunion class gift committees, among other university roles.

Among his many awards, Miller received the Distinguished Service Award from UVM in 2004 and the Eleanor Roosevelt Humanities Award from the State of Israel, in 1974. He was inducted into the Florida Home Builders Association Hall of Fame. In 2004, the Millers received The Spirit of Jerusalem Medallion for their support of Israeli bonds.
Floyd H. Rourke
Doctor of Laws

Although Floyd Rourke lives in New York, he has had an extraordinary influence on cancer research and medical care in Vermont and beyond. As the chair of the Lake Champlain Cancer Research Organization (LCCRO), Rourke has dedicated the vast majority of its endowment to UVM’s Vermont Cancer Center (VCC). To date, in its twenty-seven-year history, the LCCRO has supported the cancer center with approximately $10 million, strongly underpinning the VCC’s leading-edge cancer research and care for patients in this region.

College of Medicine Interim Dean John Fogarty has said that, without Rourke’s passionate advocacy, “the Vermont Cancer Center would be weakened, if it existed at all.” The LCCRO’s generosity, Fogarty said, “stands along with twenty-eight years of National Cancer Institute funding as one of the twin pillars supporting the Vermont Cancer Center.”

Rourke is the retired chairman, president, and CEO of Sandy Hill Corporation, a pulp and paper machinery company in Hudson Falls, New York. As chair of the LCCRO, he is carrying on the work of his mentor, philanthropist Walter Juckett, who created and self-financed the LCCRO.

The VCC at UVM is one of only thirty-nine federally designated comprehensive cancer centers in the country. Its members have advanced cancer research through several, significant break-throughs: identifying two colon cancer genes; identifying a genetic marker to detect genetic damage from environmental factors (and using the marker to establish the first physical evidence that a pregnant woman’s exposure to passive smoking harms the fetus); pioneering sentinel node biopsy, which reduces the extent and harm of breast cancer surgery; and promoting mammography registries throughout the country.

In addition to his chairmanship of LCCRO, Rourke heads the Sandy Hill Foundation, also created by Juckett, which focuses on animal welfare, higher education, human services, and the arts. He also is a trustee of the Glens Falls Hospital Foundation and the Glens Falls Foundation; the latter awards scholarships to local students. He is a former member of the board of governors of Glens Falls Hospital. He is a former director of the Double H Ranch of Lake Luzerne, New York, part of the network of Paul Newman’s Hole-in-the-Wall Camps for children who are critically ill and their families. Rourke was a key force behind the creation of policies and protocols that served as models in establishing Hole-in-the-Wall Camps across the United States, in Europe, and in Israel. He also has served business interests through his membership on the boards of the Saratoga County Industrial Development Agency for twenty years and Banknorth N.A. of Glens Falls for twenty-eight years.

The inpatient surgical center at Glens Falls Hospital is named for Rourke, and the VCC’s Regional Cancer Research Symposium includes the Rourke Prize for best research presentation.

Thomas K. Slayton
Doctor of Humane Letters

Tom Slayton has been taking the pulse of Vermont for forty years and delivering his diagnosis with caring but clear-eyed, eloquent prose and commentary. Retiring this year as editor-in-chief of Vermont Life magazine after twenty-one years, he leaves behind a matured publication that reflects well and truthfully on his beloved state.

Slayton has been a perfect editorial fit for a magazine that celebrates a landscape rife with the elements of his passions – hiking, skiing, and birding. Fortunately for Vermont Life readers, he also has been a superb translator of those and of Vermont’s unique sense of place.

Slayton, a native Vermonter, graduated from UVM in 1963 with a degree in English and history; while there, he worked in food service and as a dorm counselor for his board and room. In an interview with Vermont Business Magazine a few years ago, he recalled how influenced he continues to be by some of his professors, including Betty Bandel, Bob Cochran, Jeremy Felt, and others. Following graduation, his next stop was the Army, and, after that tour, he began a twenty-year career as a newspaperman, starting at the Rutland Herald as a city reporter. He became a member – and later, chief – of the Vermont Press Bureau, covering state government. Later still, he was the editorial page editor of the Barre-Montpelier Times Argus.

In 1986, Slayton began his second career as Vermont Life’s editor. He saw the state publication through the technological revolution that all publishing has weathered, as well as threatening financial times and the concomitant need to bring in revenue through advertising and expanded, related sales, including its famous calendars. Vermont Life has a circulation of 75,000 paid subscribers, with an estimated far-and-wide readership of 200,000. A recent review by a Montana reader on Amazon.com cited the magazine as “a cornucopia of information for those who live there or (in my case) yearn to live there. Don't pass up this magazine,” he exhorted us. Many of the magazine’s readers are Vermont expats, and one, now living in Seattle, also wrote an Amazon review, saying she picks up the magazine when she is feeling homesick. “It’s like a nice slab of apple pie with sharp Cabot cheddar on the side – a piece of home every month.”

Slayton has attracted many of Vermont’s best writers and photographers as contributors, and during his tenure, the magazine has won 95 regional and national awards for writing, photography, and covers. That success is closely tied to his direction, fueled by his belief in Vermont’s uniqueness, “Vermont has lots of ‘there’ – it feels like a real and definable place,” he said in one of his Vermont Public Radio commentaries. Vermont, he said, is “a place where people tend to ignore social classes. … college professors do not have significantly greater social cachet here than masons or printers or lawyers or contractors, and people tend to be listened to on the strength of their arguments, rather than on the authority of their position.”

The Academic Costume worn today in U.S. colleges and universities is a survivor of the Middle Ages. The University of Vermont was among the first in this country to experiment with the use of academic gowns, requiring their wearing at the graduation of 1806. The experiment was not repeated until mid-century when UVM and other colleges began wholeheartedly to use the medieval scholar’s clothing for ceremonial occasions.

The code regulating academic costume is administered by an intercollegiate commission that establishes uniform standards. BACHELORS’ gowns have closed fronts and long, pointed sleeves. MASTERS’ gowns may be worn open or closed and have oblong sleeves open at the wrist, the lower portion hanging down with an arc near the bottom. DOCTORS’ gowns may be open or closed and have velvet facings and three velvet bars on the round, open sleeves. The facings and bars may be of black or of the official colors of the wearer’s department of learning.

Hoods are usually black. All are lined in silk in the academic color or colors of the institution conferring the degree, with a chevron for additional colors. A University of Vermont hood is lined with green, with a gold chevron, the official school colors. The color of the hood border indicates the degree earned.

The Class of 1927 Memorial Mace is carried by the University Marshal at formal university occasions and is displayed on the platform during these ceremonies. The Mace, a gift from the Class of 1927, is forty-seven inches long, cast bronze, plated in silver, with a black ebony handle. The sculpture on one of the four sides depicts the center section of Old Mill with Mt. Mansfield in the background, symbolizing the founding of the University. Other sides display three students reaching upwards to a lamp, symbolic of learning; the Ira Allen Chapel, symbolizing spiritual guidance; and a group of four persons, symbolizing friendship. It is crowned by the seal of the University.

The Mace was designed and the model sculpted by Richard Simpson, son of Carl G. and Doris Griffith Simpson, both members of the Class of 1927.

The University Seal or Medallion was adopted in 1807 and used until 1871 when it was replaced by a round seal incorporating the name of the College of Agriculture. In 1975 the Board of Trustees voted to restore the original seal to official use, modified to incorporate the Latin name of the College of Agriculture.

The motto on the seal is from Horace, Epistles 1.2.36. Literally, it means “For virtuous studies and matters.” In the allusion to Horace’s poem it reflects UVM’s continuing belief in the utility and practicality of all liberal studies.
Universitas V. Montis

Tune: Jane Oppenlander
Text: David Cox

1. From the lofty peaks of Mansfield to the shores of Lake Champ lain, comes a mighty swelling chorus, whose echo will remain:

2. Shadows falling across the campus, changing seasons' wondrous scene, stir our thoughts of Alma Mater, and her colors Gold and Green:

mont! Vermont! Vermont! our University! Thy loyal sons and daughters sing in love and praise to Thee!

Gaudeamus igitur

Traditional University Song
Second Verse by Z. Philip Ambrose, Professor of Classics

1. Let's rejoice therefore while we are young; after pleasant youth,
   After troublesome old age, the ground shall have us.

2. Let Vermont now live, as once lived the Romans!
   Let the language of Caesar live, let that of Socrates live, o Vermonters!
