2012 VT Agronomy Plus

Managing for Long-Term Success

STRATEGY

There has never been a greater need to think seriously about managing for long-term success: maximizing the impact of every dollar invested in farm operations, capitalizing on opportunities, and avoiding common pitfalls. Join us January and February 2012 as we discuss:

- Top-quality haylage production.
- Nitrogen management in grass haylage: how much N is enough?
- What's the difference? Characteristics of farms that succeed and farms that fail.
- Optimizing profitability with low-cost rations.
- Other locally relevant topics.

Attendees will enjoy interactive presentations, discussions, and an excellent lunch with UVM Extension faculty and staff including Sid Bosworth, Mark Canella, Jeff Carter, Alan Curler, Heather Darby, Daniel Hudson, Dennis Kaupplia, Tony Kitsos, and Bob Parsons (varies by location).

CCA & RUP Credits Pending.
