The UVM Office of Technology Commercialization is pleased to present

The Research Commercialization and SBIR Center of the National Center for Entrepreneurial Technology Transfer (NCET2)

Research Commercialization

Webinar Series

The Research Commercialization and SBIR Center of the National Center for Entrepreneurial Technology Transfer (NCET2) is offering a free introductory Research Commercialization Webinar Series starting September 20th at 1PM. You can learn more about the agenda of the series here and register for the series at your own computer here. The Research Commercialization Course is recommended for all science, engineering and medical researchers in public or private research institutions (e.g., grad students, post-docs, and faculty). This is an indispensable course for S&E grad students looking for jobs in the next 6-18 months in this competitive employment environment. Please forward to your students.

As an alternative to sitting at your desk, join your colleagues and the UVM Office of Technology Commercialization (OTC) in the HSRF 200 conference room for one or all of the Research Commercialization Series sessions on the "big screen". After each session a representative of the OTC and of the Vermont Center for Emerging Technologies (VCET) will be there to answer questions and for more discussion.

Questions? Please contact Beth Hill at OTC at Beth.Hill@uvm.edu or at 802-656-8780.

Class Schedule:

Lecture 1: The Importance of Commercializing Research. Tues, September 20, 2011, 1:00 pm to 2:30 pm

September 15, 2011

The Office of Technology Commercialization (OTC) wanted to make you, your faculty, post-docs, and students aware of a free webinar series on Research Commercialization being offered by the Research Commercialization and SBIR Center of the National Center for Entrepreneurial Technology Transfer (NCET2).

OTC has also reserved the HSRF 200 conference room for each of these sessions for those folks who would like to join us for one or all of the sessions and have us available for questions and discussions afterwards.

More information on the series, how to register, and on our own presentation of the series in HSRF200 is in the attached announcement.

Please forward on to your folks and anyone else you think I have missed.

Thank you and please don't hesitate to contact me should you have any questions or need more information.

Best regards,

Kerry
