About SARE

USDA's Sustainable Agriculture Research and Education (SARE) program advances farming and ranching systems that are profitable, environmentally sound, and good for communities. Since 1988, SARE has awarded more than 2500 grants to farmers, researchers, and agricultural educators through its four regional offices. There is also a national SARE office in Washington, D.C.

The SARE regions are:

North Central Region, hosted by the University of Nebraska. Call 402-472-7081 or go to www.sare.org/ncrsare

Northeast Region, hosted by the University of Vermont. Call 802-656-0471 or go to www.uvm.edu/~nesare

Southern Region, hosted by the University of Georgia and Fort Valley State University. Call 770-412-4787 or go to www.griffin.peachnet.edu/sare

Western Region, hosted by Utah State University. Call 435-797-2257 or go to <http://wsare.usu.edu/>

The SARE national office is at 202-720-6527 and www.sare.org
