Growing Places Registration: Fall 2009-Winter 2010

Growing Places is designed for individuals:

- who are considering starting an agriculture or natural resource based business, but
- who aren't sure where to start.

Growing Places is designed to help participants:

- develop a comprehensive goal statement which will help in the business planning process;
- explore and evaluate opportunities and resources;
- become familiar with state and federal agriculture programs.

Whether in-person or on-line, the Growing Places curriculum is the same, and is open to everyone. The on-line class is designed to help serve people for whom travel time, family and work commitments make participation in an in-person class difficult, and to serve individuals from a broader geographical area. People with slower Internet connections, or who are less comfortable with written communication, may prefer the classroom setting.

To register, fill it out this form and return it to WAgN with your registration fee by the deadline listed below. The more specific your answers are, the more we will be able to meet your individual needs. Save by registering early!

Registration deadlines and fees are as follows:
