A Window on
The University of Vermont History

As the University of Vermont's 200th commencement has approached, some have asked a sensible question – “If the first commencement was in 1804, wouldn't this be the 201st?” True enough, if it was not for the War of 1812, which caused the University to suspend classes during the 1814-1815 school year. Federal troops commandeered the lone building, the College Edifice (which stood on approximately the same site as the present day Old Mill), for use as a barracks. Like much of the University's early history, this chapter is closely intertwined with the fledgling years of the nation and the state of Vermont.

The founders of the independent Republic of Vermont, heroes of the American Revolution including the Allen family of Green Mountain Boy renown, recognized the value of higher education and wrote it as a future focus into the Constitution of 1777. As the Republic became a state in 1791, the University of Vermont was established by the General Assembly. It would be another ten years, though, until instruction began at the University. Daniel Clarke Sanders was the first of nine Congregational ministers to serve successively as president of UVM, and he would shape the University of Vermont in the liberal tradition of his alma mater, Harvard.

UVM's fifth and sixth presidents, James Marsh and John Wheeler, would play major roles in firming the University's foundation after a shaky beginning due to war, fire, and thin finances. Marsh was an inspiring academic leader who made a national reputation for himself as a literary scholar and established curricular reform at UVM that would change the way studies were organized at colleges and universities throughout the country. Where Marsh brought intellectual inspiration, Wheeler brought financial stability and improved facilities. In 1836, Wheeler sent Professor Joseph Torrey on a year-long trip to Europe to buy books to boost the University library's meager collection. Students so eagerly anticipated Torrey's arrival that they lit 1,600 candles in the windows of Old Mill to greet him as his boat steamed into Burlington Harbor. One year later, a student named Alvi Tabor Twing would lead an effort to beautify the unruly green that stood at the center of campus.

The University of Vermont's more recent history includes a period of significant growth which began in the early 1960s. The vast majority of UVM alumni are graduates of this era. While the University has grown as a public research university, it has retained the commitment to undergraduate education of a smaller liberal arts college, a balance that has become a hallmark of the University of Vermont.

President Daniel Mark Fogel, UVM's 25th president, assumed leadership in 2002. In his vision for the University of Vermont in 2012-13, President Fogel has set the course for the next chapter in UVM history. Increasing enrollments, improving facilities, and increasing private funding support are among the strategic initiatives designed to secure the University of Vermont's place as the nation's premier small public research university.

DAVID A. MAMET
Commencement Speaker
Doctor of Humane Letters

Pulitzer Prize-winning playwright and two-time Oscar nominee, director, essayist, novelist and poet David Mamet (writer/director) has been a force in American theater since 1976, when his first staged plays immediately won Obie and New York Drama Critics Circle Awards.

_Spartan_ is his ninth film as writer-director. His critically acclaimed debut feature, _House of Games_, was selected to close the New York Film Festival in 1987. He followed this with his gentle Mafia fable _Things Change_, co-written with Shel Silverstein, for which Joe Montegna and Don Ameche shared Best Actor honors at the 1988 Venice Film Festival; _Homicide_, which opened the 1991 Cannes Film Festival; _Oleanna_ in 1994, the sole film he has adapted and directed from one of his plays; _The Spanish Prisoner_, his acclaimed Hitchcockian thriller, which became one of the most popular independent films of 1998; _The Winslow Boy_, an adaptation of the famed Terrence Rattigan play starring Nigel Hawthorne, Jeremy Northam and Rebecca Pidgeon; and most recently, _State and Main_, starring William H. Macy, Alec Baldwin, Sarah Jessica Parker, Philip Seymour Hoffman and Rebecca Pidgeon. Mamet has also won acclaim for numerous screenplays, including _The Verdict for Sidney Lumet and Wag the Dog_ for Barry Levinson, which were both nominated for Academy Awards for Best Screenplay.

His other screenplays include _The Postman Always Rings Twice_ for Bob Rafelson; _The Untouchables_ for Brian DePalma; _We're No Angels_, with Robert DeNiro and Sean Penn for Neil Jordan; _Hoffa_, directed by Danny DeVito and starring Jack Nicholson in the title role; and _The Edge_, with Anthony Hopkins and Alec Baldwin.

The writer first won recognition with his plays, _Sexual Perversity in Chicago_ and _American Buffalo_ (later filmed with Dustin Hoffman and Dennis Franz). When both plays opened in New York in 1976, Mamet won the Obie Award for distinguished play writing and _American Buffalo_ was voted Best Play by the New York Drama Critics Circle. In 1978, he received the Outer Critics Circle Award for his contribution to American theater. In 1984, Mamet won another Best Play award from the New York Drama Critics Circle as well as the Pulitzer Prize for _Glengarry Glen Ross_. The play also received four Tony Awards and was made into a major motion picture in 1992. His other plays include _Edmond_ and _The Cryptogram_, both Obie Award winners, as well as _The Water Engine, A Life in the Theatre, Lakeboat, Speed-the-Plow, The Old Neighborhood, Boston Marriage_ and _Dr. Faustus_.

In related work, he has adapted four works by Chekhov: _Vint, The Cherry Orchard, Three Sisters_ and _Uncle Vanya_. He has written children's plays and books, seven volumes of essays and three novels, numerous magazine articles, and collaborated on many songs with his wife, songwriter and actress Rebecca Pidgeon.

Mamet also acted in the TV adaptation of his play, _The Water Engine_, and played a gambler in Bob Rafelson's movie _Black Widow_. He taught acting at his alma mater, Goddard College, as well as at the University of Chicago, Yale School of Drama and New York University's Tisch School of the Arts, where, with William H. Macy, he established a repertory company in 1988, the Atlantic Theater Company. He recently directed Harold Pinter, Rebecca Pidgeon and John Gielgud in _Catastrophe_, an installment of _The Beckett Project_, wherein 19 Beckett plays were produced as a collective for British television.

FLORENCE KNOLL BASSETT
Doctor of Letters

Interior space planner and designer Florence Knoll Bassett is recognized worldwide as one of the principals of the 20th century's modern movement in architecture and interior design. Known as "Shu" by her design colleagues and friends, Bassett introduced the world to a groundbreaking genre of furniture design.

Bassett began studying architecture at the tender age of 15, while a student at the Kingswood School on the campus of the Cranbrook Academy of Art in Bloomfield Hills, Michigan. Among her early and most influential mentors are architect Eliel Saarinen, developer and president of Cranbrook, and architect Ludwig Mies van der Rohe, designer of the Seagram Building in New York City and director of architecture at the Illinois Institute of Technology.

A student of the Architectural Association in London and a graduate of the architecture program at Illinois Institute of Technology Bassett began her career as an architectural draftsman and designer at Gropius & Breuer in Boston. Her first husband Hans Knoll hired her as director of interior design in a division that evolved into Knoll International, the office furniture designer and manufacturer where Bassett made her mark as a leader in modern design. In addition to bringing the furniture designs of Ludwig Mies van der Rohe, Marcel Breuer and Eero Saarinen to popularity, Bassett is credited as setting Knoll International on the path to prominence. In addition to the company's unparalleled success, her tenure there produced such legacies as the interiors of Connecticut General Life Insurance in Bloomington, Connecticut, and CBS headquarters in New York City.

Bassett is President and Chairperson of the Bassett Foundation, which was established by her late second husband, Harry Hood Bassett. A strong advocate for conserving farmland, the Bassets donated the development rights to their Vermont farm to the American Farmland Trust. As part-time Vermont residents, Florence and Hood Bassett generously supported facilities at the University of Vermont, including the Flow Cytometry Facility at the College of Medicine and the Proctor Maple Research Center.

Bassett was inducted into the Interior Design Magazine Hall of Fame in 1985. In 2000, she donated her papers to the Smithsonian Institution's Archives of American Art. Her career archive – described by _Metropolis_ magazine as "a revelation" – was a work of art in itself. In 2003, her contributions to modern design earned her the honor of the 2002 National Medal of Arts – the highest award given to artists and arts patrons by the United States government. No doubt, Florence Knoll Bassett will continue to inspire innovation in interior design for generations to come.

EDWIN I. COLODNY
Doctor of Laws

Throughout his five decades as one of America's top business executives, Edwin Colodny was best known for his transformation of USAir from a small regional carrier into an airline industry powerhouse. Later in his career, Colodny earned a reputation for guiding major organizations such as the University of Vermont and Fletcher Allen Health Care through critical periods of transition and leaving them prepared to flourish in the years ahead.
A native of Burlington, Colodny’s journey began on South Winooski Avenue less than a mile from the UVM campus. After graduating from the University of Rochester and later from Harvard with a law degree, he worked as a trial lawyer for the Civil Aeronautics Board before joining USAirways (then named Allegheny Airlines) as assistant to the president in 1957. He worked his way up the ranks until being named president and CEO in 1975.

Colodny is credited with reshaping the airline industry by having the savvy to ride the wave of deregulation, an era that started in 1978 when USAir began buying up small airlines. The acquisitions turned USAir (now USAirways) into a major national carrier with over $6.5 billion in revenues. By the time Colodny left the airline in 1992 after serving as chairman of the board since 1978, he’d become known as a master of mergers.

With a career as successful as Colodny’s behind him, many executives would have gone silently into retirement. Not Colodny. In many ways he was about to start the second half of his career, which started the year he left USAir and began a 10-year run as counsel at Paul, Hastings, Janofsky, & Walker in Washington D.C. He also served as chairman of Comsat Corp., a leading provider of global satellite and digital networking services, from 1997 until the corporation’s merger with Lockheed Martin in 2000.

During his tenure in the corporate world, Colodny also played a leadership role in the world of higher education. He served as chair of the Board of Trustees at the University of Rochester from 1985 to 1988, where he helped guide the university through issues similar to ones he would face as interim president at UVM starting in June of 2001. Those challenges included an overall strategic change, financial challenges, fundraising, and an effort to improve the university’s image and marketing.

Once again, it was assumed that Colodny would retire when he stepped down as UVM’s interim president in 2002. And once again, that assumption would prove incorrect. Colodny stepped into another interim leadership role in his hometown, guiding Fletcher Allen Health Care through a difficult period of transition before stepping down in 2003. If Colodny chooses not to take on another major leadership position, it will be a rest well deserved.

CHARLES W. JOHNSON
Doctor of Science

It would be difficult to find a better companion than Charles Johnson for a walk through New England’s natural world. Vermont’s state naturalist for more than 20 years, Johnson has brought the skills of a scientist, writer, and educator to his life’s work, a career that has opened the eyes of thousands to the wonders of this region. One of the state’s most respected environmentalists, the scope of Johnson’s study is vast as the mile-high glaciers that covered Vermont millions of years ago and minute as the microscopic organisms living in a north woods bog.

Johnson earned his bachelor’s degree from Wabash College in Indiana, and his master’s in wildlife biology from the University of Illinois. He came to Vermont in 1973 when he began his long career with the Vermont Department of Forests, Parks and Recreation in the role of ranger at Brighton State Park, on Spectacle Pond in the Northeast Kingdom.

Not long after, Johnson stepped into the role of Vermont State Naturalist, creating and leading statewide programs to record, manage, and interpret the state’s natural heritage. Anyone who has walked a nature trail, visited a museum, or listened to a naturalist’s talk at a Vermont State Park has benefited from the work Johnson undertook as he built a multi-faceted program to enhance the visitor experience.

Through the lens of Johnson’s thorough inventory of the natural environment in each of Vermont’s State Parks, a picture of the entire state’s natural world emerged. That work formed the core of Johnson’s first book, The Nature of Vermont: Introduction and Guide to a New England Environment, originally published in 1980 and released in a second edition in 1998. In addition to numerous articles, other books have followed, including Bogs of the Northeast, and his most recent publication In Season: A Natural History of the New England Year, a collaboration with his wife, Nona Bell Estrin.

Johnson has also been a strong voice for conservation. Through his work as assistant to the commissioner for the state’s Department of Forests, Parks and Recreation, he has played a leadership role in preserving Vermont’s natural environment. From Hazen’s Notch to Mount Hunger, Hancock to Plymouth, Johnson’s knowledge and skill has helped to protect pieces of land notable for their high ecological value and essential as movement corridors for wildlife.

Over his three decades in Vermont, Johnson has been a familiar face at the state’s university where he has been a guest lecturer on natural history and writing. He also completed extensive work toward his doctorate in ecology at the University of Vermont.

MICHAEL L. LOMAX
Doctor of Humane Letters

Michael Lomax is a professor turned politician turned university president who has led a revival of New Orleans’s Dillard University. In February, his career in higher education leadership took another dramatic step when Lomax was named president and CEO of the United Negro College Fund.

When Lomax assumed Dillard’s presidency in 1997, the historically black institution had a long and distinguished tradition, but flagging enrollment and aging facilities. During Lomax’s first five years on the job, he increased enrollment by 44 percent and led an aggressive renovation program to improve the living and learning environment for Dillard students.

Lomax is an eloquent and indefatigable advocate for the nation’s historically black colleges and universities. As a member of a Presidential board of advisors, in congressional testimony, and in his efforts at Dillard, Lomax argues that such institutions must honor their traditions of excellence while reimagining their roles for changing times. His knowledge of the subject runs deep. Lomax matriculated at Atlanta’s Morehouse College at age 16, continuing a 130-year family tradition of pursuing education at historically black colleges.

Another lasting thread in Lomax’s career is civic engagement. In his current role at Dillard, he helped launch a partnership with public schools through leadership in the Greater New Orleans Education Foundation, which is dedicated to strengthening curriculum and helping to prepare urban youth for college. Earlier, during his 12-year career as chair of the commissioner’s board for Georgia’s largest and most populous county, Lomax oversaw an annual budget in excess of a half-billion dollars and 5,000 county employees. He was the state’s first African American in such a role.
He juggled his civic role with his academic life as a professor of literature at Emory University, thriving on the endless challenges of balancing two demanding roles. While difficult, Lomax told Emory Magazine, he believed that the work was in some sense a fulfillment of the promise of the Civil Rights Movement. “I was too young to participate in the sit-ins and the marches in any really meaningful way,” he told the magazine. “… but I was old enough to be a part of the revolution which really realized the goals of the movement.”

Lomax is founding chairman of Atlanta’s National Black Arts Festival and has served on the boards of the Studio Museum in Harlem, the Carter Center of Emory University, the United Way of America, Teach for America and many others. In addition to Morehouse, Lomax has received degrees from Columbia and Emory University. He is a specialist in African American literature, particularly the Harlem Renaissance poet Countee Cullen, and taught the subject at Morehouse and Spelman colleges, Emory University, the Georgia Institute of Technology and the University of Georgia.

GRACE PALEY
Doctor of Humane Letters

Author and activist Grace Paley has had a substantial impact on social and literary culture for more than four decades. Her highly acclaimed collections of short fiction have won her readers’ hearts and secured her place as one of America’s most accomplished writers. United by her signature intertwining of personal and political truths, her stories also exhibit an extraordinary capacity for empathy and pointed, funny depictions of the small and large events that make up life. Her first collection, The Little Disturbances of Man (1959), established her reputation as a writer with a remarkably supple gift for language. She wrote two more greatly lauded volumes of short fiction: Enormous Changes at the Last Minute (1974), and Later the Same Day (1985), as well as three collections of poetry.

Paley began teaching in the early 1960s at Columbia and Syracuse universities, then became a faculty member at Sarah Lawrence College and taught at City College in New York. Born in the Bronx and raised in New York, she was named by former Gov. Mario Cuomo as the first official New York State writer. For many years, she divided her time between New York and Vermont, and now resides in Thetford.

She received a Guggenheim Fellowship in fiction in 1961, and in 1987 was awarded a Senior Fellowship by the National Endowment for the Arts, in recognition of her lifetime contribution to literature. Her Collected Stories was nominated for the National Book Award in 1994.

Popular and respected by teachers of writing, Paley’s stories are often used as models in writing workshops. In 1997, she participated in the University of Vermont’s Summer Writing Program, and she has lectured on campus at other occasions.

Paley also has devoted much of her life to anti-war, feminist and anti-nuclear movements. She opposed American involvement in Vietnam, served as secretary of the Greenwich Village Peace Center and spent time in jail for her antiview activities. She participated in peace missions to Hanoi and Moscow, and was among “The White House Eleven” who in December 1978 were arrested for unfurling an anti-nuclear banner on the White House lawn. Paley also visited Nicaragua and Salvador after campaigning against the U.S. government’s policies toward those countries.

In 2003, Paley was appointed Vermont State Poet, a post she will occupy for four years. Among the letters nominating her for this honor, one described her as “a beloved figure among writers and readers alike… who draws everyone into her wake with her humor, lack of egotism and down to earth manner.” Vermont is fortunate to have Paley as the state’s advocate for poetry and literature.

STEPHEN B. RUBENSTEIN
Doctor of Laws

After a year of studies at the University of Vermont, Stephen Rubenstein launched his own real estate company in 1961. By buying degraded factories and warehouses and making significant improvements that added value, in just over 40 years, Rubenstein built his family business into a multi-million dollar conglomerate of real estate development, construction, and defense-contracting companies.

Rubenstein Properties of Little Falls, New Jersey, not only adds value to each site, its practices reduce the impact of construction on surrounding properties and use environmentally sensitive design. For instance, one purchase turned out to have been a pesticide manufacturing site back in 1929. Its soil tests showed the highest arsenic levels of any place in the United States. Rubenstein worked through the challenges of clean-up and restored the site.

Stephen Rubenstein has brought his personal hallmarks of adding value and environmental stewardship to the University of Vermont: in 1993, he became a founding member of the board of advisors of what was then called the School of Natural Resources. There he championed the idea that Vermont’s own extraordinary environment is a natural home to America’s top environmental school.

In 1997, Stephen and his wife, Beverly Rubenstein, donated $1 million toward the Rubenstein Ecosystem Science Laboratory on the shores of Lake Champlain in Burlington. The fully-equipped research facility opened two years later, and in May 2003 the ECHO Leahy Center for Lake Champlain was built connected to the lab to highlight the partnership between science research and public science education.

While at the time this gift was the largest ever received by the School of Natural Resources, Stephen and Beverly Rubenstein broke their own record in October 2003 – their generous $15 million commitment in support of environmental education and research at the University of Vermont is the largest in the institution’s 200 years. This unparalleled gift was the cornerstone of the launch of UVM’s current $250-million capital campaign. Last fall, UVM’s School of Natural Resources was re-named the The Rubenstein School of Environment and Natural Resources in the Rubenstein family’s honor.

With these commitments, the Rubenstein family has made UVM one of only two named environmental schools in the nation, made possible faculty enrichment and student scholarships, inspired environmental study across disciplines, and helped the university on its way to becoming the nation’s pre-eminent institution for environmental study.

Steve Rubenstein, who began at the University of Vermont in horticulture studies, has grown a successful business and is helping the environment flourish through the education of future environmental leaders.

Kerstin Lange, B.A. (State University of New York at Binghamton) 1999; M.A. (State University of New York at Binghamton) 1993; Bremen, Germany*
Vanessa R. Levesque, B.A. (Dartmouth College) 1995; Milford, CT
Thesis: Values, Science and Watershed Planning in Dam Removal Debates
Michael Christopher Miller, B.A. (Hartwick College) 1991; East Hardwick
Sharon Elizabeth Plumb, B.S. (The University of Vermont) 1993; Washington*
Kendra Jane Schmiedeskamp, B.S. (University of Michigan) 1994; Ann Arbor, MI
Andrea Christina Stohler, B.S. (University of Michigan) 1998; Annapolis, MD*
Thesis: The Evolution of a Community-University Relationship
Erika Suzanne Swahn, B.S. (Plattsburgh State University) 1998; Amityville, NY
Thesis: UVM’s Environmental Impact: Application of an Ecological Footprint Analysis
James William Tilley, B.A. (University of Virginia) 1998; Monetu, VA
Thesis: Calcium as a Limiting Nutrient for the Growth and Health of Sugar Maple in Vermont

Water Resources

Emily K. Brines, B.S. (Bates College) 1998; Waitsfield
Thesis: The Effects of Zebra Mussels on the Lower Planktonic Foodweb of Lake Champlain
Amy M. Mahar, B.S. (William Smith College) 1998; Olean, NY
Thesis: Contaminant Mixtures in Storm Water Runoff: Interactions Among Constituents Affect Toxicity
Megan J. Moir, B.A. (Rice University) 1998; Houston, TX
Thesis: Contribution of Forested Watersheds and Beaver Ponds to Fecal Contamination of Surface Waters in Vermont

Wildlife and Fisheries Biology

Carl John Anderson, B.S. (The University of Vermont) 1997; Burlington
Effects of Patch Configuration and Composition on Distribution and Abundance of Forest Birds in a Northern Vermont Landscape
Eric Austen Howe, B.S. (State University of New York College of Environmental Science and Forestry) 1997; Lake George, NY
Thesis: A Comparison of In-Stream Population Estimate Techniques for Larval Sea Lamprey (Petromyzon marinus)
Megan Erica Hughes, B.A. (Earlham College) 1996; South China, ME*
Thesis: Effects of Local- and Landscape-Scale Variation on the Distribution of Three Area-Sensitive Forest Songbirds in Vermont
Amy E. Smith Kyle, B.S. (The University of Vermont) 1990; Burlington*
Thesis: Diversity, Abundance, and Foraging Behavior of Birds in a Shade Coffee Plantation and Tropical Forest in Belize
Joseph Michael Alexander Petty, B.A. (Oberlin College) 1993; Burlington
Daniel P. Shustack, B.S. (The Pennsylvania State University) 2000; Bedminster, PA
Thesis: Bobolink and Savannah Sparrow Habitat Selection in the Champlain Valley

Doctor of Philosophy

Natural Resources

Thesis: Purification and Crystallization Attempts of Bovine Factor VA Heavy Chain

Cell and Molecular Biology

Richard F. Melnick, B.S. (University of Pennsylvania) 1984; M. B. A. (Columbia University) 1991; Burlington*
Thesis: Protein Tyrosine Phosphorylation as a Signaling Motif in Cell Volume Regulation in Liver

Molecular Physiology and Biophysics

Chris Okwuchekwu Asanya, B.S. (Institute of Management and Technology) 1987; Nigeria*
Thesis: Characterization of a Novel cGMP-Dependent Protein Kinase G Inhibitor and its Effect on Basal Kinase Activity in Rat Cerebral Arteries

Philip Andrew Chan, B.S. (The University of Vermont) 2001; Concord, NH
Thesis: A Study of Folding and Catalysis in the Hairin Ribozyme Using 2-Aminopurine Fluorescence

DOCTOR OF PHILOSOPHY

Cell and Molecular Biology

Jill Bleuit, B.A. (Ithaca College) 1990; Norristown, PA
Dissertation: Biochemical Studies of the Initiation of Homologous Recombination in Bacteriophage T4

Peter M. Burch, B.A. (University of New Hampshire) 1992; Burlington
Dissertation: Effects of Oxidative Stress on Mitogenic Signaling During Cell Cycle Reentry

Karen Louise Gross, B.A. (University of Chicago) 1993; Burlington*
Dissertation: Finding Genes for Uterine Fibroids

Joshua Adam Henkin, B.S. (The University of Vermont) 1993; M. S. (The University of Vermont) 1999; Bethesda, MD
Dissertation: Effect of Contractile Protein Mutations on the Proteome and Mechanical Properties of Insect Indirect Flight Muscle

Christopher Brian Manning, B.S. (Middle Tennessee State University) 1998; M. S. (Middle Tennessee State University) 1998; Murfreesboro, TN*
Dissertation: The Role of MEK1/2-ERK1/2 Signaling in Bronchiolar Epithelium in Crocidolite Asbestos-Induced Lung Disease

Microbiology and Molecular Genetics

Kirk M. Brown, B.A. (Waterbury College) 1995; M. A. (University of Nebraska) 1997; Tipton, Iowa
Dissertation: Investigation of the Role of CFI, in Mammalian Pre-mRNA 3’ Processing

Kimberly Carey, B.S. (The University of Vermont) 1994; Jericho
Dissertation: Identifying Toxoplasma Gondii Proteins Functioning in Host Cell Invasion or Intracellular Survival Using Novel Screening Approaches

Qiang Chen, B.S. (Fudan University) 1996; Shanghai, CHINA
Dissertation: Identification of Genes Involved in Glycosylation and Secretion of FAP1: Characterization of SECA2 of Streptococcus Parasanguis

Jonathan Joseph Cherry, B.S. (University of New Hampshire) 1995; Worcester, MA
Dissertation: Influence of Splicing Factors on Recognition and Utilization of Mammalian Pre-MRNA 3’ Processing Sites

Cynthia A. Villarimo, B.S., M.S. (California State University, Hayward) 1997; Newark, CA
Dissertation: The Study of Different Hairpin Ribozymes in Vitro Activity and Antiviral Activity in Cell Culture

Zhenxi Zhang, B.S. (Fudan University) 1997; Wabui, P.R. China*
Dissertation: Site of Action and Mechanism of Hairpin Ribozyme-Mediated Inhibition of Sindbis Virus Replication

Molecular Physiology and Biophysics

University Awards of the Year to Seniors and Graduate Students

UNIVERSITY AWARDS

THE F.T. KIDDER MEDAL, established in memory of Dr. F.T. Kidder, 1880, a trustee of the university, to be awarded to the senior man ranking first in character, leadership and scholarship:

To be announced at commencement

THE MARY JEAN SIMPSON AWARD presented to the senior woman who best exemplifies the qualities of leadership, academic competence and character that Mary Jean Simpson strove to set before the women at the university during her tenure as Dean of Women:

To be announced at commencement

THE CLASS OF 1967 AWARD presented to the senior who best exhibits leadership, academic competence and character, and who has earned the respect of faculty and fellow students:

To be announced at commencement

THE KEITH M. MISER LEADERSHIP AWARD established in 1989 and presented in recognition of outstanding service to the University of Vermont:

To be announced at commencement

THE ELMER NICHOLSON ACHIEVEMENT PRIZE recognizes the greatness of the student’s UVM experience, and based on this greatness of experience, there is an expectation that the student will make a major contribution in their field of interest:

To be announced at commencement

AWARDS TO ATHLETES

THE HENRY SEAMANS TROPHY awarded annually to a female and a male senior athlete who have earned the respect and regard of fellow students for leadership, loyalty and service to the university and for active participation in athletics:

Becky Daley (hockey)
John Antonucci (soccer)

THE J. EDWARD DONNELLY AWARD established in 1992 and awarded annually to a senior female and male athlete whose athletic performance during their tenure at the university has distinguished them as one of the University of Vermont’s most outstanding athletes:

Kristal Kostiew (track and field)
Matt Knittle (skiing)

THE RUSSELL O. SUNDERLAND MEMORIAL TROPHY awarded annually to a female and a male senior athlete who, throughout their college days, have best exemplified the qualities of character, leadership and persistence in overcoming obstacles:

Christina Gingras (track and field, cross country)
Matt Shetch (basketball)

THE WASSON ATHLETIC PRIZE awarded annually to a female and a male senior athlete who have maintained the highest standards of academic scholarship and athletic attainment:

Michele Palmer (track and field, cross country)
Scotty Jones (basketball)

COLLEGE OF AGRICULTURE AND LIFE SCIENCES

FOUNDATIONS: FIRST YEAR SEMINAR TEACHING ASSISTANT OF THE YEAR AWARD presented annually to recognize the student who most clearly demonstrates those special characteristics which are exemplary of the role of Foundations First-Year Teaching Assistant:

Joshua S. Palmer

COLLEGE HONORS:
Mary Kate Bennett, “A Study of the Histological Changes in Mammary Cells of Prepubertal Heifers Hormonally Induced into Lactation”
Valarie L. Cook, “Identification of Genes Responsive to Delta Signaling”
Kathlyn E. Coughlan, “Prediction of Ovulation in Cycling Dairy Cows Using Viscoelasticity of Vaginal Mucus”
Jacqueline M. Doyle, “Effects of Deep Breaths on Methacholine Challenge in Mice”
Danielle M. Frechette, “Investigation of Female Philopatry in Vermont Bobcates via Microsatellite Analysis”
Carolyn R. McGuinness, “Promoter Methylation is the Underlying Mechanism for Silencing of Dipeptidyl Peptidase IV (DPPIV), a Tumor Suppressor Gene in Melanomas”
Joseph E. Morabito, “Hormonal Regulation of the MMTV Promoter”
Robert N. O’Brien, “Genetic and Molecular Characterization of the Jasmonic Acid Signaling Pathway in Legume Nodulation”
Melissa A. Randall, “Gene Mutations and the Lesch-Nyhan Syndrome”

DEPARTMENT OF ANIMAL SCIENCES

GEORGE H. WALKER AWARD presented annually by faculty vote to members of the graduating class of the College of Agriculture and Life Sciences who have majored in Animal Sciences, who exhibit conspicuous merit in the studies pertaining to Dairy Science, and especially in those courses relating to the production and/or processing of market milk, and who furthermore exhibit high and noble traits of leadership and character:

Elizabeth F. Brunst

DONALD J. BALCH AWARD presented annually to that student making the greatest contribution to the equine or companion animal activities of the Department of Animal Sciences:

John H. Pigott
Deborah D. Press

AMERICAN SOCIETY OF ANIMAL SCIENCE AWARD presented annually to sophomores, juniors, and seniors whose academic record, scholastic efforts and character warrant recognition as the future leaders in the field of Animal Sciences. Graduating seniors named to the society are:

Katie L. Buss
Rebeca R. Butler
Tanya J. Cramoy
Allison L. Devlin
Jacqueline M. Doyle
Ethan D. Fechter-Leggett
Jill K. Fraga
Jacqueline M. Hulce
Sarah J. James
Ladan Karimian
Whitney A. Knauer
Allison F. Maslack
John H. Pigott
Deborah D. Press
Jessica C. Scillieri
Jeffrey R. Sheldon
Abigail E. Swift
Stanley F. Yazwinski
BRETT KLEIN MEMORIAL SCHOLARSHIP presented to the CREAM Student Herd Advisors for Fall 2003 and Spring 2004 for their dedication, responsible leadership, and the caring, friendly attitude that Brett exemplified as a 1990 CREAMER as well as for their excellence in teaching and advising the 2003-04 Creamers and in passing on the CREAM tradition:

Keith E. Bogatch
Elizabeth F. Brunst

ELMER TOWNE Award presented annually by the Vermont Dairy Industry Association to that student whose work in the field of Dairy Science shows the greatest promise for providing the quality leadership exemplified by Elmer E. Towne in his life of service to the Dairy Industry:

Jeffrey R. Sheldon

ANIMAL SCIENCES FACULTY AWARD in recognition of scholastic performance, outstanding achievements in undergraduate research, and service to the Department of Animal Sciences:

Jennifer L. Ather

BRIAN HAWLEY SCHOLARSHIP AWARD, in memory of Brian D. Hawley, an Animal Sciences graduate of UVM, is given to a deserving Vermont junior or senior in the Animal Sciences Department:

Samantha J. Perkins

TRIONA WILDER MARNO-FERREE MEMORIAL AWARD is presented to the student or students who possess a genuine love of horses and display the energy and enthusiasm shown by Triona for UVM Horse Barn activities:

Megan P. Hughes

BIOLOGICAL SCIENCE PROGRAM

SCHOLASTIC ACHIEVEMENT AWARD presented to students who have earned the highest scholastic average in their respective classes starting in the second year:

Cedric C. Pecor

DEPARTMENT OF COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT AND APPLIED ECONOMICS

OUTSTANDING SENIOR AWARDS presented to senior students in each undergraduate academic concentration in recognition of outstanding academic achievement:

Small Business/Agricultural and Resource Entrepreneurship:

Brian F. Skelly
Community and International Development:

Sarah L. Rubbins-Breen

SCHOLASTIC RECOGNITION of the top ten percent of all seniors with a major in Community Development and Applied Economics based on cumulative grade point average:

Benjamin M. Collette

To our Faculty and Staff, in Appreciation

There is no other campus-wide event at the University of Vermont that involves as many departments and individuals to produce as Commencement. I am especially pleased that, through the efforts of hundreds of our talented and dedicated faculty and staff, we have brought this ceremony back to the main campus for our 200th Commencement and have rediscovered our magnificent and historic green. We could not have accomplished so much without your efforts and dedication all year long.

Today it is not only I who thank you but also the Class of 2004 and their families for making the Commencement such an extraordinary and special event in all of our lives and in the longer life of this distinctive and venerable institution.

President Daniel Mark Fogel
The University of Vermont

ACADEMIC REGALIA

The Academic Costume worn today in U.S. colleges and universities is a survivor of the Middle Ages. The University of Vermont was among the first in this country to experiment with the use of academic gowns, requiring their wearing at the graduation of 1806. The experiment was not repeated until mid-century when UVM and other colleges began wholeheartedly to use the medieval scholar's clothing for ceremonial occasions.

The code regulating academic costume is administered by an intercollegiate commission that establishes uniform standards. BACHELORS' gowns have closed fronts and long, pointed sleeves. MASTERS' gowns may be worn open or closed and have oblong sleeves open at the wrist, the lower portion hanging down with an arc near the bottom. DOCTORS' gowns may be open or closed and have velvet facings and three velvet bars on the round, open sleeves. The facings and bars may be of black or of the official colors of the wearer's department of learning.

Hoods are usually black. All are lined in silk in the academic color or colors of the institution conferring the degree, with a chevron for additional colors. A University of Vermont hood is lined with green, with a gold chevron, the official school colors. The color of the hood border indicates the degree earned.

The Black Mortarboard is worn for all degrees. Only Doctors' caps may be made of velvet and only Doctors or Presidents of institutions may wear a gold tassel on the cap.

The Class of 1927 Memorial Mace is carried by the University Marshal at formal university occasions and is displayed on the platform during these ceremonies. The Mace, a gift from the Class of 1927, is forty-seven inches long, cast bronze, plated in silver, with a black ebony handle. The sculpture on one of the four sides depicts the center section of Old Mill with Mt. Mansfield in the background, symbolizing the founding of the University. Other sides display three students reaching upwards to a lamp, symbolic of learning; the Ira Allen Chapel, symbolizing spiritual guidance; and a group of four persons, symbolizing friendship. It is crowned by the seal of the University.

The Mace was designed and the model sculpted by Richard Simpson, son of Carl G. and Doris Griffith Simpson, both members of the Class of 1927.

The University Seal or Medallion was adopted in 1807 and used until 1871 when it was replaced by a round seal incorporating the name of the College of Agriculture. In 1975 the Board of Trustees voted to restore the original seal to official use, modified to incorporate the Latin name of the College of Agriculture.

The motto on the seal is from Horace, Epistles 1.2.36. Literally, it means “For virtuous studies and matters.” In the allusion to Horace’s poem it reflects UVM’s continuing belief in the utility and practicality of all liberal studies.
Universitas V. Montis

Tune: Jane Oppenlander
Text: David Cox

1. From the lofty peaks of Mansfield to the shores of Lake Champlain, comes a mighty swelling chorus, whose echo will remain:

2. Shadows falling 'cross the campus, changing seasons' wondrous scene, stir our thoughts of Alma Mater, and her colors Gold and Green:

Vermont! Vermont! Vermont! Our University! Thy loyal sons and daughters sing in love and praise to Thee!

Gaudeamus igitur

Traditional University Song
Second Verse by Z. Philip Ambrose, Professor of Classics

Gaudamus igitur, Juvenes dum sumus; Gaudamus igitur, Juvenes dum sumus; Post jocundam junior tem, Vi-ris, Si-cut tunc Romani! Vi-ris, Si-cut tunc Romani! Vi-rat lingua Cae-sar-is!

post molestam senectutem, nos habebit hu - mus, nos habebit humus.

1. Let's rejoice therefore while we are young; after pleasant youth,
After troublesome old age, the ground shall have us.
2. Let Vermont now live, as once lived the Romans!
Let the language of Caesar live, let that of Socrates live, o Vermonters!
