

Davis Center Art Curator

This position is ideal for a student looking for “real world” experience in the realm of art management and curating.

This student will serve on the Davis Center art committee and as the liaison between committee members and artists. In addition to helping shape the art program in the Davis Center, the curator will oversee the installation of exhibits in the building and art openings, build collaborations with campus partners, and implement an bi-annual call for student artwork.

This position is open to candidates with or without work study funding.
