

Title: Campus Kitchen Summer Garden Intern

Positions Open: One

Salary: $2000 for the summer

Duration: May 26 – August 14, 2009

Description:

The Campus Kitchen at the University of Vermont is recruiting a summer intern to manage its cooking and distribution shifts and coordinate gardening and gleaning programs for the Healthy City program's youth participants. Campus Kitchen is a student-run nonprofit group that collects unused food from Dining Services, turns the food into a nutritious meal, and serves the meal to members of the Burlington community. The garden intern would work with a nutrition intern to supervise CK UVM's weekly cooking shifts and facilitate various activities with the Healthy City youth.

Responsibilities will include:

1. Supervising Healthy City teens and other volunteers during food preparation and distribution shifts
2. Compiling a binder of lesson plans and activity evaluations for use in future gardening programs
3. Aiding in the supervision of weekly gleaning projects at the Intervale
4. Coordinating and recruiting volunteers for the Campus Kitchen student garden
5. Recruiting and training volunteers for CK UVM's programs, including cooking shifts and gleaning efforts

Qualifications:

Ideal candidates will be undergraduate students currently enrolled in an academic institution. Agricultural science and environmental studies majors are strongly encouraged to apply, but students with a general interest in the fields of gardening, hunger alleviation and nonprofit work will be considered.
