Best Management Practices for Livestock & Equine Pastures

hosted by UVM's Miller Farm & Research Center, Burlington, VT

Is it possible for horse owners and managers to successfully join happy horses, clean water, healthy soils and diverse plants? Yes!

Join Drs. Betsy Greene and Rachel Gilker of UVM, and Dr. Carey Williams of Rutgers University at a workshop hosted by UVM's Miller Farm & Research Center. The best management practices covered will include high traffic area and water quality challenges, pasture management for the greatest rewards and forage plant identification. Dr. Williams has been working closely with her own equine school to address these issues, and brings a fresh perspective to some age-old questions.

DATE: September 15, 2009

TIME: 1:30 to 4:30 pm

COST: $5 to attend. Please RSVP for planning purposes!

DIRECTIONS: From I-89 Exit 14W, travel west on Williston Road. Bear right toward the Spear Street u-turn. Once across Williston Road, the farm will be 1/2 mile on the left. Street address: 500 Spear Street, South Burlington, VT.
