How can our digital printing solutions help you today?

Take a look at the new ways we can help you get documents produced when you need them and where you need them, in the right quantities. We can speed up your turnaround, and save you time, labor, and cost associated with producing, storing and distributing documents.

Quick turnaround.

With our Xerox digital printing system you can take your digital files and go right from proof to print because there are no intermediate steps. The time savings compared to traditional methods are significant.

Short run.

Now you can produce high-quality documents for an audience as small as one – cost effectively. Customize presentations, add a beautiful hard cover and print only the quantity you need.

Frequent updates.

Some documents are short-lived and frequently revised and updated. We can store these documents for you as electronic print-ready files, update and print them, as needed.

University networked.

Why spend your time running across town to get jobs printed only to wait weeks longer for printing and delivery? You can send us your documents directly to us across the university network – the time and cost savings are incredible!

Manage.

Don't use valuable space to store forms, manuals, brochures and the like. Let us be your document manager. We'll store your valuable business documents as electronic files, and when you need refills just give us a call.

Think of us as an extension of your desktop.

You're probably using the latest desktop publishing software to create your documents. Now think about the efficiency of using digital technology and high-speed, high-quality Xerox digital printing and publishing systems to print what you need, when you need it, where you need it.

That's what we did. Now you can use this technology to your advantage. To keep up with the accelerating pace of business. To take control of your document production. And save time and money in the process.
