Subject: Incentive-based Budgeting (IBB) Subcommittee Membership

We had a tremendous response from the campus community to participate on the IBB subcommittees. With so many outstanding nominees from across our campus, determining IBB subcommittee membership was a challenge, but a challenge of the very best sort. Upon reviewing the list of nominees, my respect and admiration for the experience, expertise and dedication of our faculty and staff has deepened. I am honored to be working with all of you and I am grateful for your willingness to engage in this important conversation.

When assembling the subcommittees, we sought balance along a number of dimensions of diversity and inclusiveness both within and among the subcommittees. We were attentive to gender, cultural, intellectual, faculty/staff, home unit, and self-nomination/central nomination mixes. That said, we also needed the right backgrounds and expertise at the table to ensure productive subcommittee discussions. While we endeavored for balance across a number of dimensions, it was not possible in all cases. I am confident we have assembled outstanding subcommittees that will effectively and actively represent our entire community. These individuals are serving as university citizens who will bring the entirety of their talents and intellect to this work on behalf of all of us.

As noted in my IBB update memo to campus on September 23, we have added a subcommittee on Interdisciplinary Scholarship and Teaching, which will be chaired by Professor William Mierse. By design, this subcommittee is comprised entirely of faculty and includes a broad range of academic disciplines with slightly less focus on balance among units.

The IBB subcommittees will, of course, draw on expertise from across campus as they conduct their work. As always, you can find current information at the IBB website.

I extend my sincerest thanks to those who were willing to be considered for appointment to these subcommittees, and to those who accepted appointments.
