Richard W. Bulliet is professor of history at Columbia University, where he has been on the faculty since 1976. He has also served as director of the University’s Middle East Institute from 1984-1990 and 1993-2000. He has an international reputation as one of our leading historians of the Muslim world. He won the Dexter Prize of the Society of the History of Technology for his book The Camel and the Wheel (Harvard University Press, 1975). He has written or edited 8 other books on topics as varied as Conversion to Islam in the Medieval Period (Harvard University Press, 1979) and Hunters, Herders and Hamburgers: The Past and Future of Human-Animal Relationships (Columbia University Press, 2005). His lecture will be based upon his 2004 Columbia University Press book, The Case for Islamo-Christian Civilization. Along with a plethora of scholarly and topical articles, he is also the author of six novels.

Tuesday, October 2, 2012

3:00 p.m. – 4:30 p.m.

Billings North Lounge • Billings Library

Sponsored by the Department of Political Science

Individuals with disabilities requiring accommodations, call Conference and Event Services as soon as possible at 656-5665