Where We've Been

A Brief History of UVM PACE

WHY PACE, WHY NOW: PACE REDEFINED

- The landscape of higher education is changing. Simply serving the students traditionally in our classrooms will not meet the educational needs of our population.

- The fastest growing group of students enrolled in a wide variety of educational programs is between the ages of 25-35
- The 18-21 age group is shrinking and will drop off markedly in 2025 with the “demographic cliff”
- Developments in the economy and workforce training are prompting many adult learners to seek educational opportunities throughout the course of their working lives.

Who We Are

- We Champion... Access

Questions You May Still Have about PACE

1. Can we just use PACE for some services like marketing?

Answer: We are moving away from the “a la carte” approach

2. What is the advantage of working with PACE for credit programs?

Answer: PACE can provide guidance and support for providing the best educational experience to non-traditional learners

Questions You May Still Have about PACE

3. Why are we paying a “tax” for PACE but also paying for “services”?

Answer: Your contribution to central funding for PACE pays for the salaries and other costs for PACE staff. PACE only charges a fee for recovering indirect costs on income expense.

4. How can we grow new programs when our faculty are already stretched?

Answer: We grow instructional capacity by hiring (e.g.) professors of practice, lecturers/instructors teaching multiple sections, by the course instructors.

Future Priorities

- Integration

- Into the core academic mission of the university: Promote organizational and cultural change

- Portfolio Alignment

- Healthy communities, healthy environment, healthy economy

- Growth

- Workforce development and employer partnerships
 - Identify our target audiences and focus on creating and expanding programs where there is the most opportunity and where there are identified areas of student needs.
 - Professional Certificates
 - Professional Masters
