

A Tour of Vegetable Farms in South Korea and Japan

Elizabeth Wood
New Leaf CSA
Dummerston, Vermont

Raised bed vegetables at 100 Flowers Farm in S. Korea, a vegetable CSA

100 Flowers farmers Jonson and Jo (and me)

100 Flowers Farm, S. Korea

Farmer and farm hands packing mulberry leaves

Amuse By Farm, S. Korea Jongwa (farmer) and volunteers

No-till at Amuse By Farm

Warasibe Farm, Iwate, Japan
farmers Atsushi and Reiko and son Nobu

Motorized cart and high tunnel at Warasibe farm

Tractors at Warasibe Farm

Tanadui Farm Farmers, Hokkaido, Japan

Farmers Akimasa and Yukari

Tanadui farmer Akimasa with daughter Yuiko checking the soy sauce barrels

Yuiko harvesting high tunnel tomatoes

Rice

Rice in springtime

Cutting and bundling rice stalks

Cutting an organic rice field

Motorized cart moving bundles to drying rack

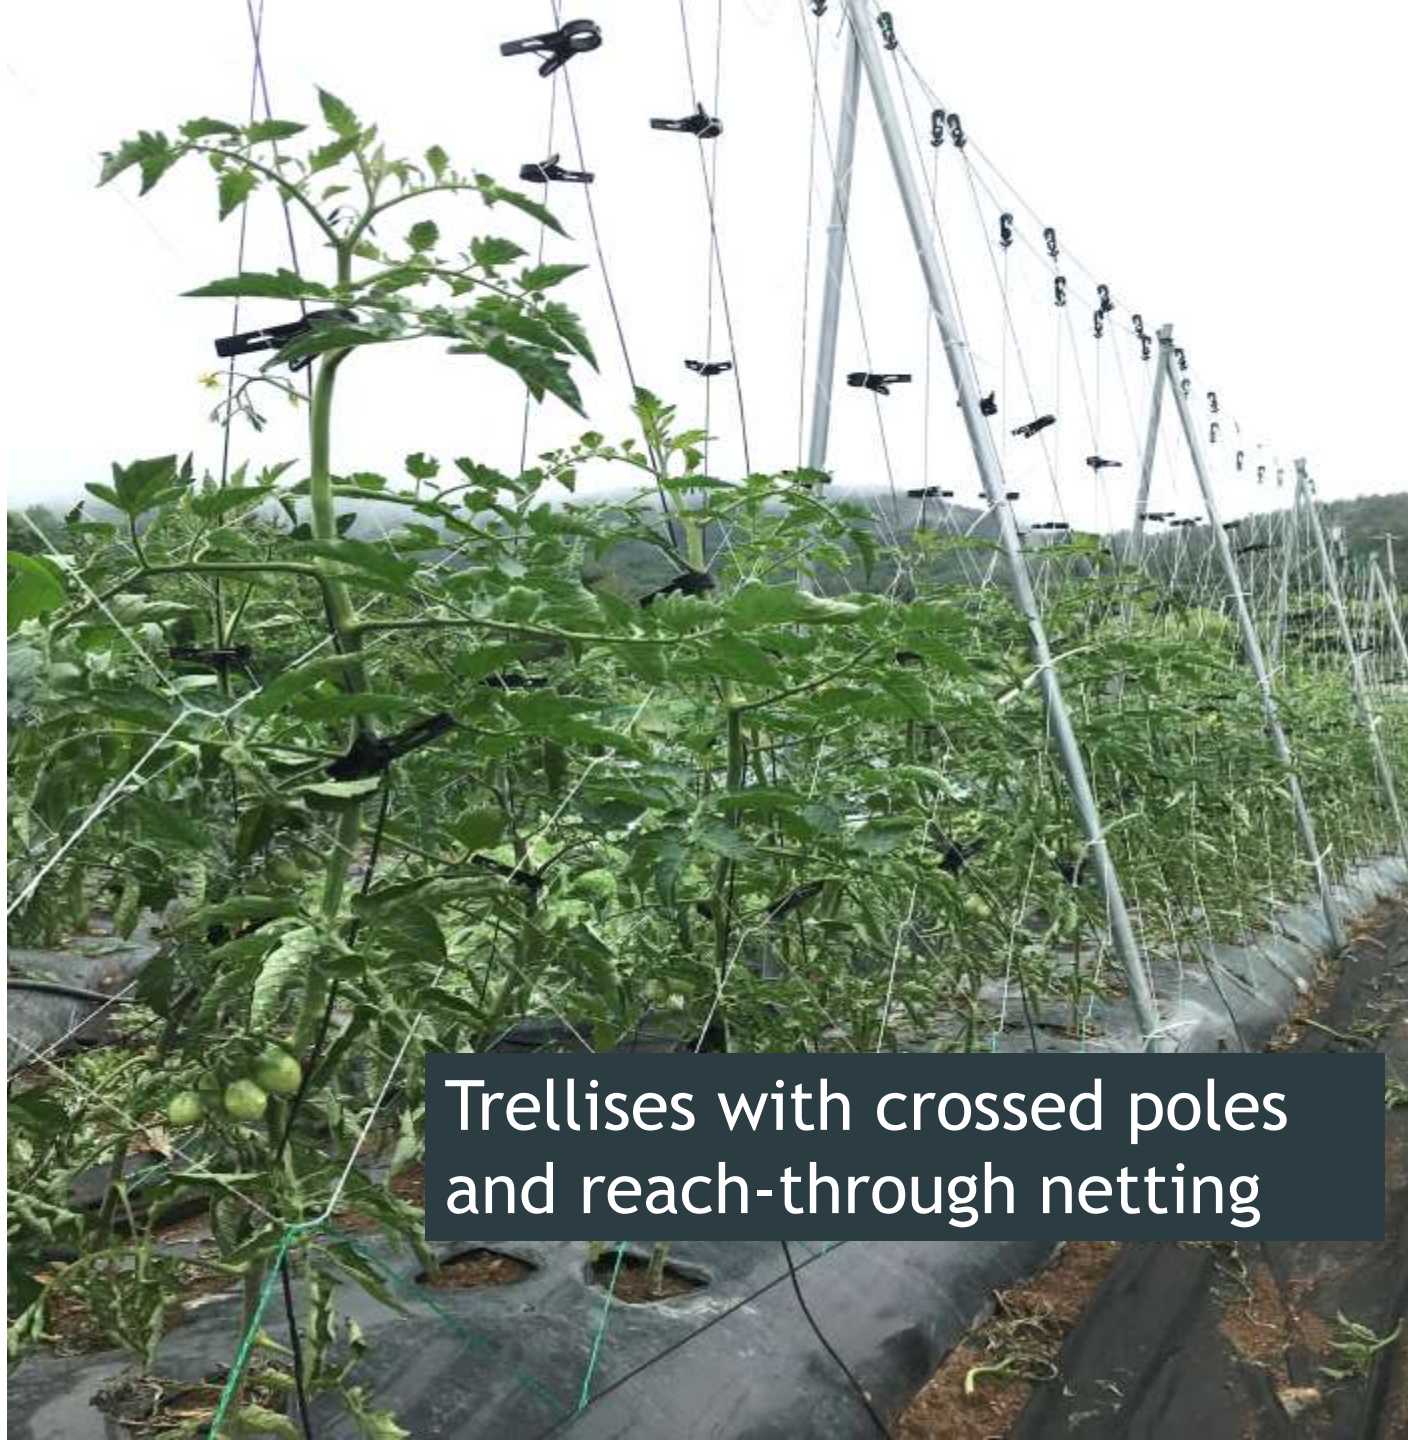

Hanging rice to dry

Done!

Trellises in high tunnel

Trellises with crossed poles and reach-through netting

Pea trellises

A photograph of a carrot field. Rows of young carrot plants with green, feathery tops are growing in a field covered with black plastic mulch. The plants are spaced out in neat rows. In the background, there are other rows of crops, including what looks like green onions or similar leafy greens. A small blue irrigation nozzle is visible in the upper middle part of the image, spraying water. The overall scene is a healthy vegetable garden or farm.

Carrots in plastic mulch

Walk behind tractor

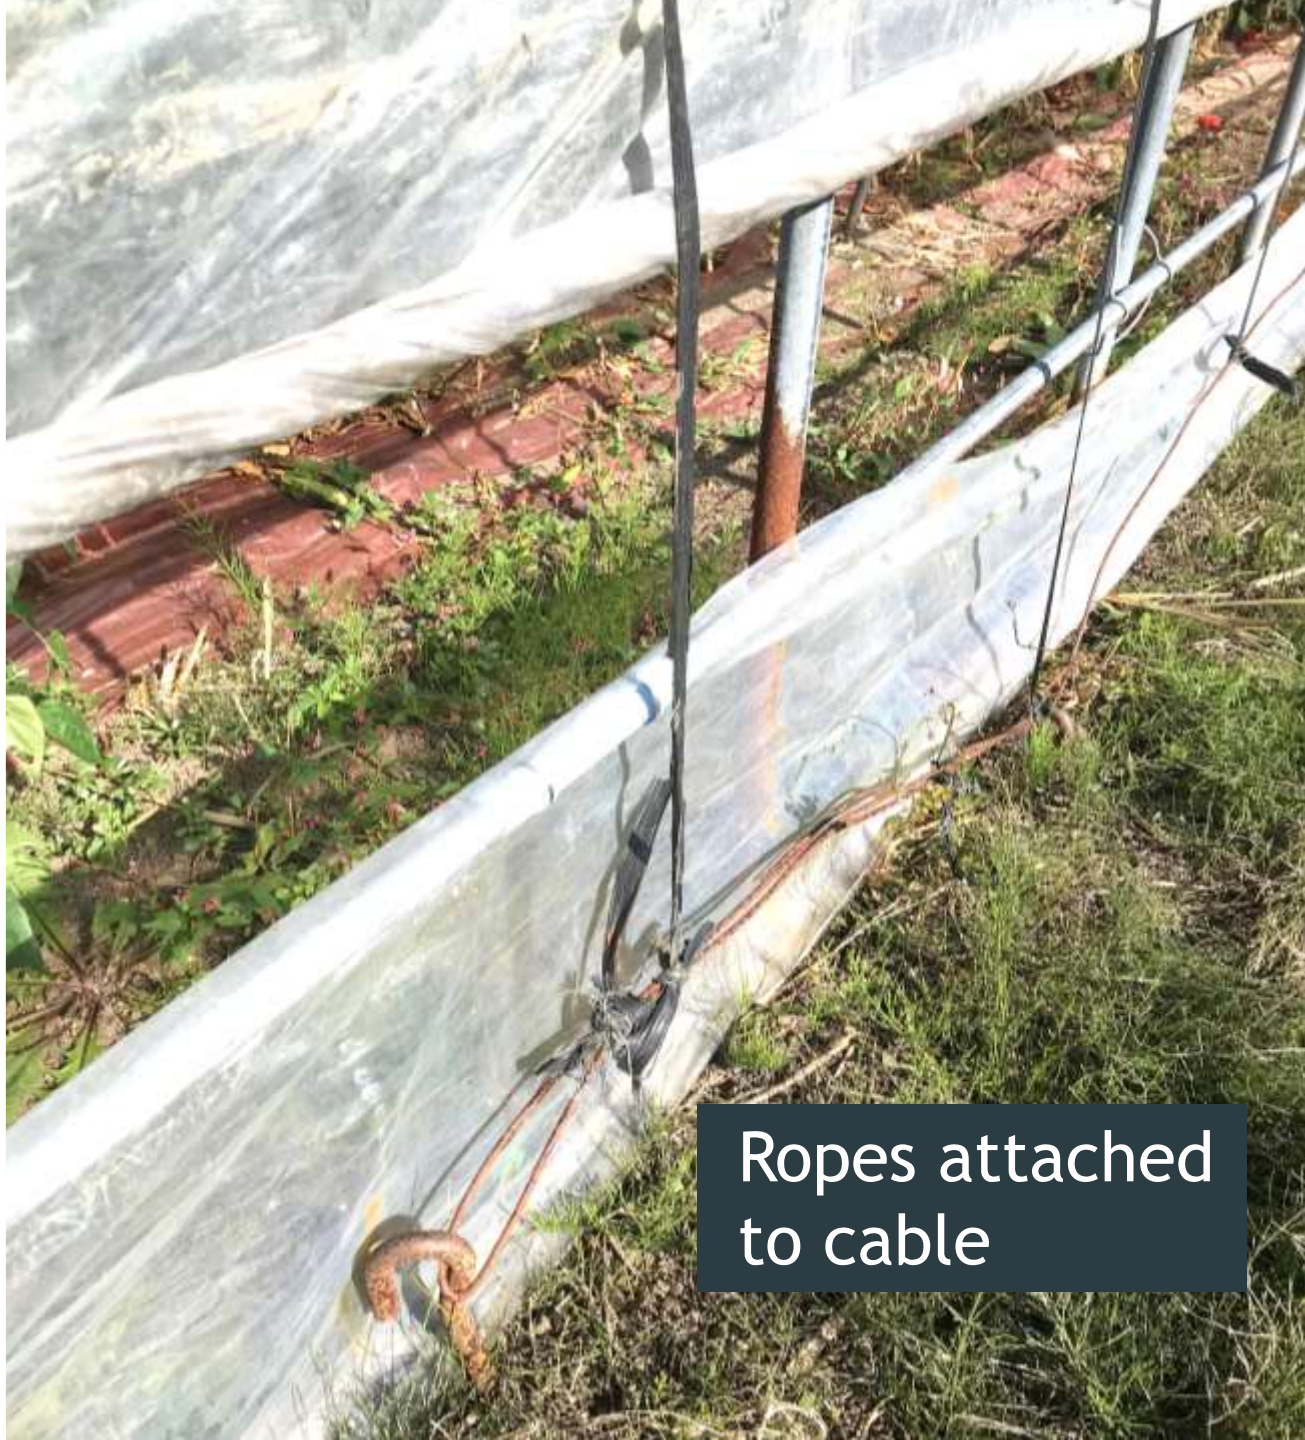

High tunnels tied down with ropes or straps

Ropes over plastic

Ropes attached to cable

Pruning and trellising eggplant

Not washing vegetables

Grocery store daikon

CSA share boxes

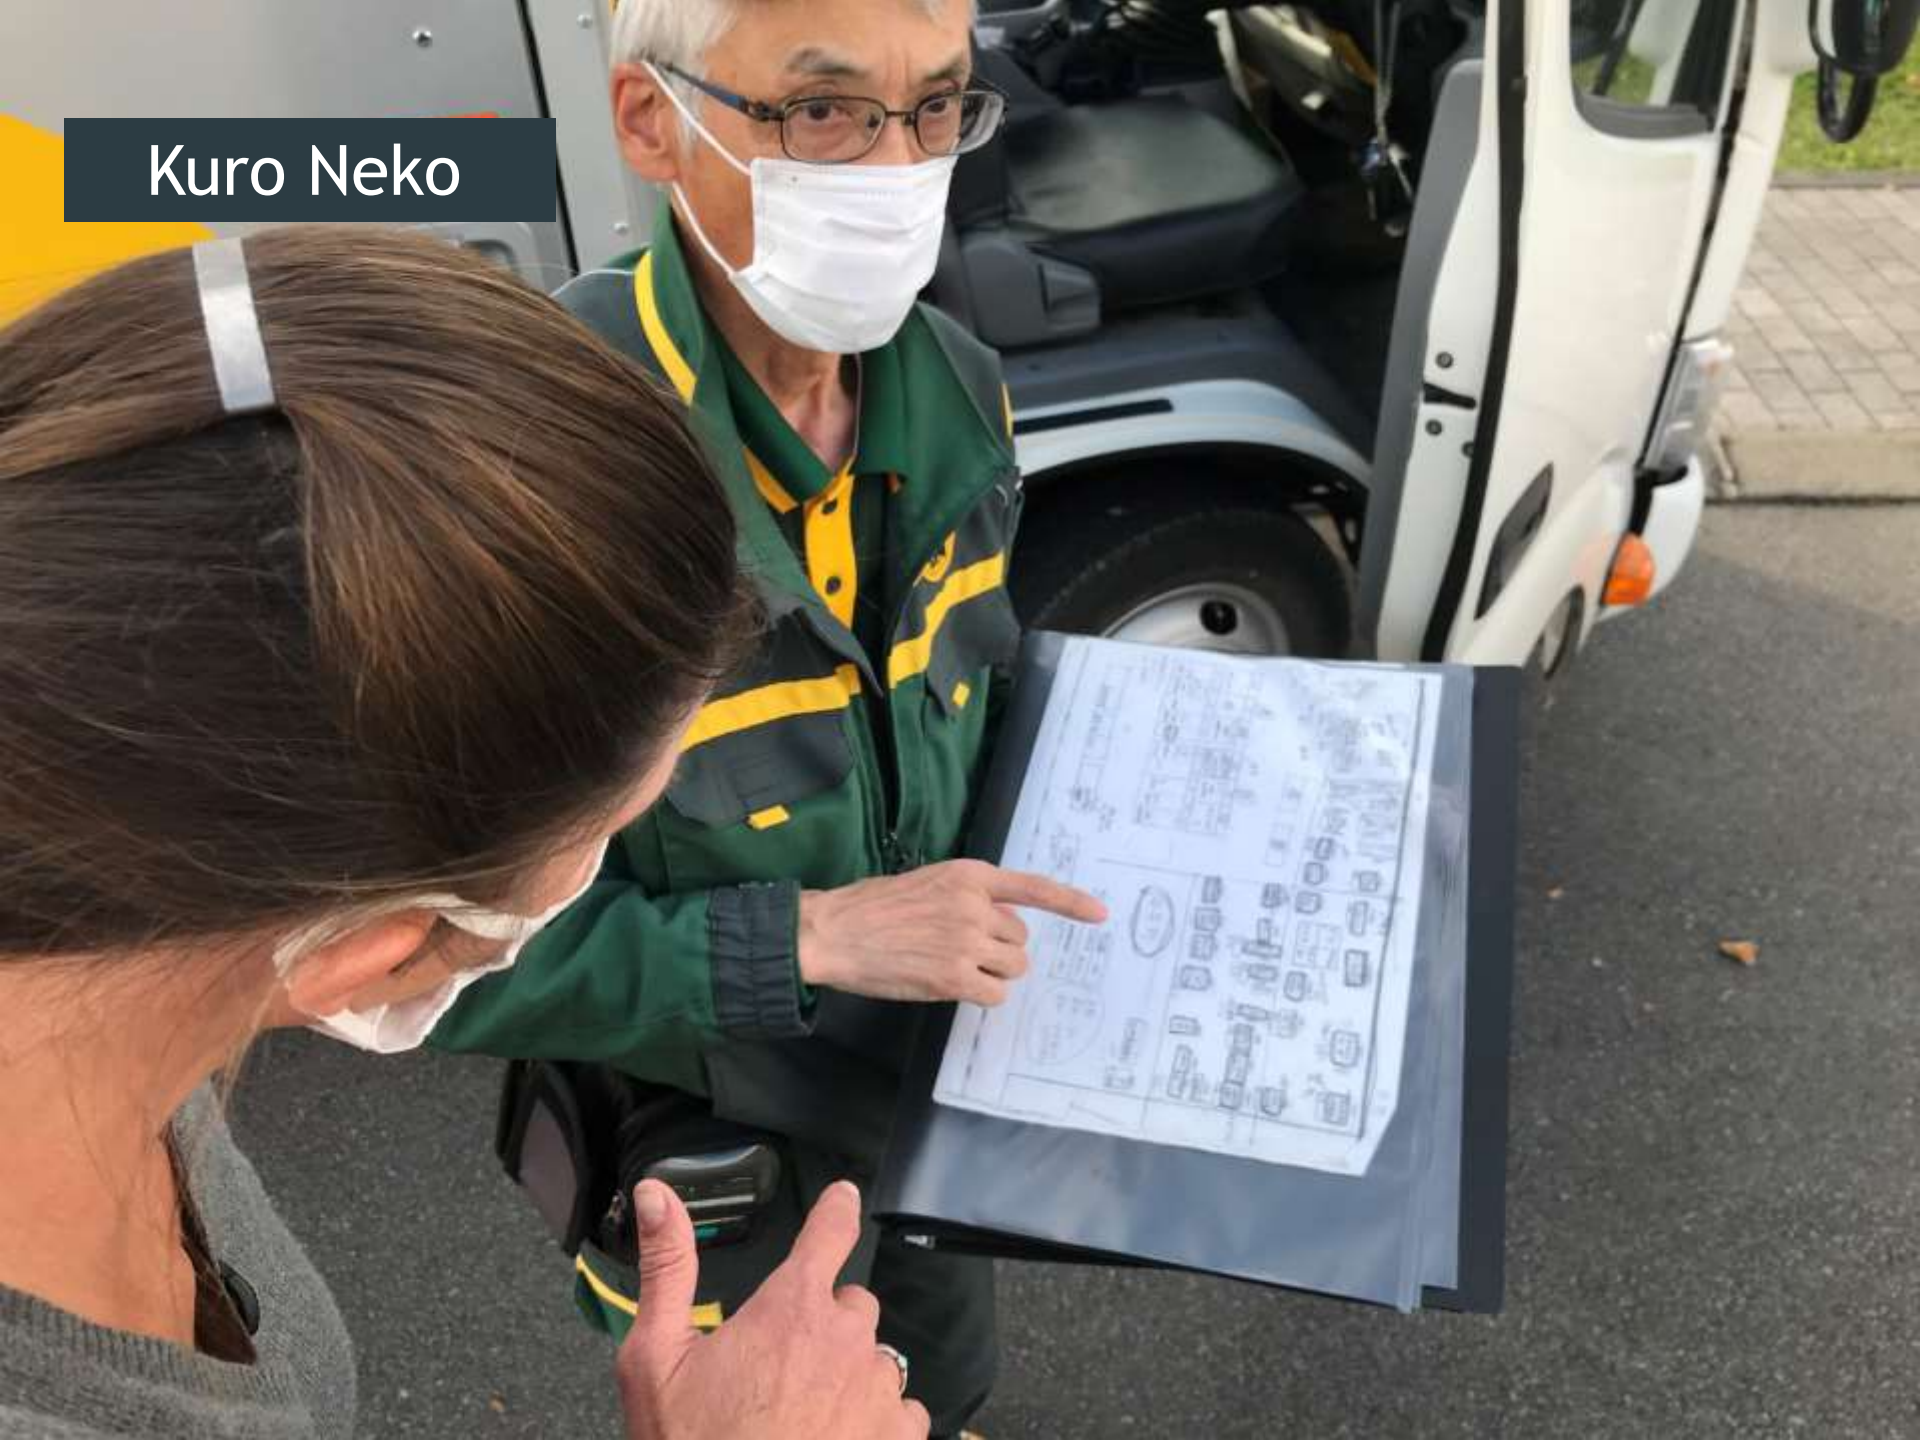

Packing share boxes

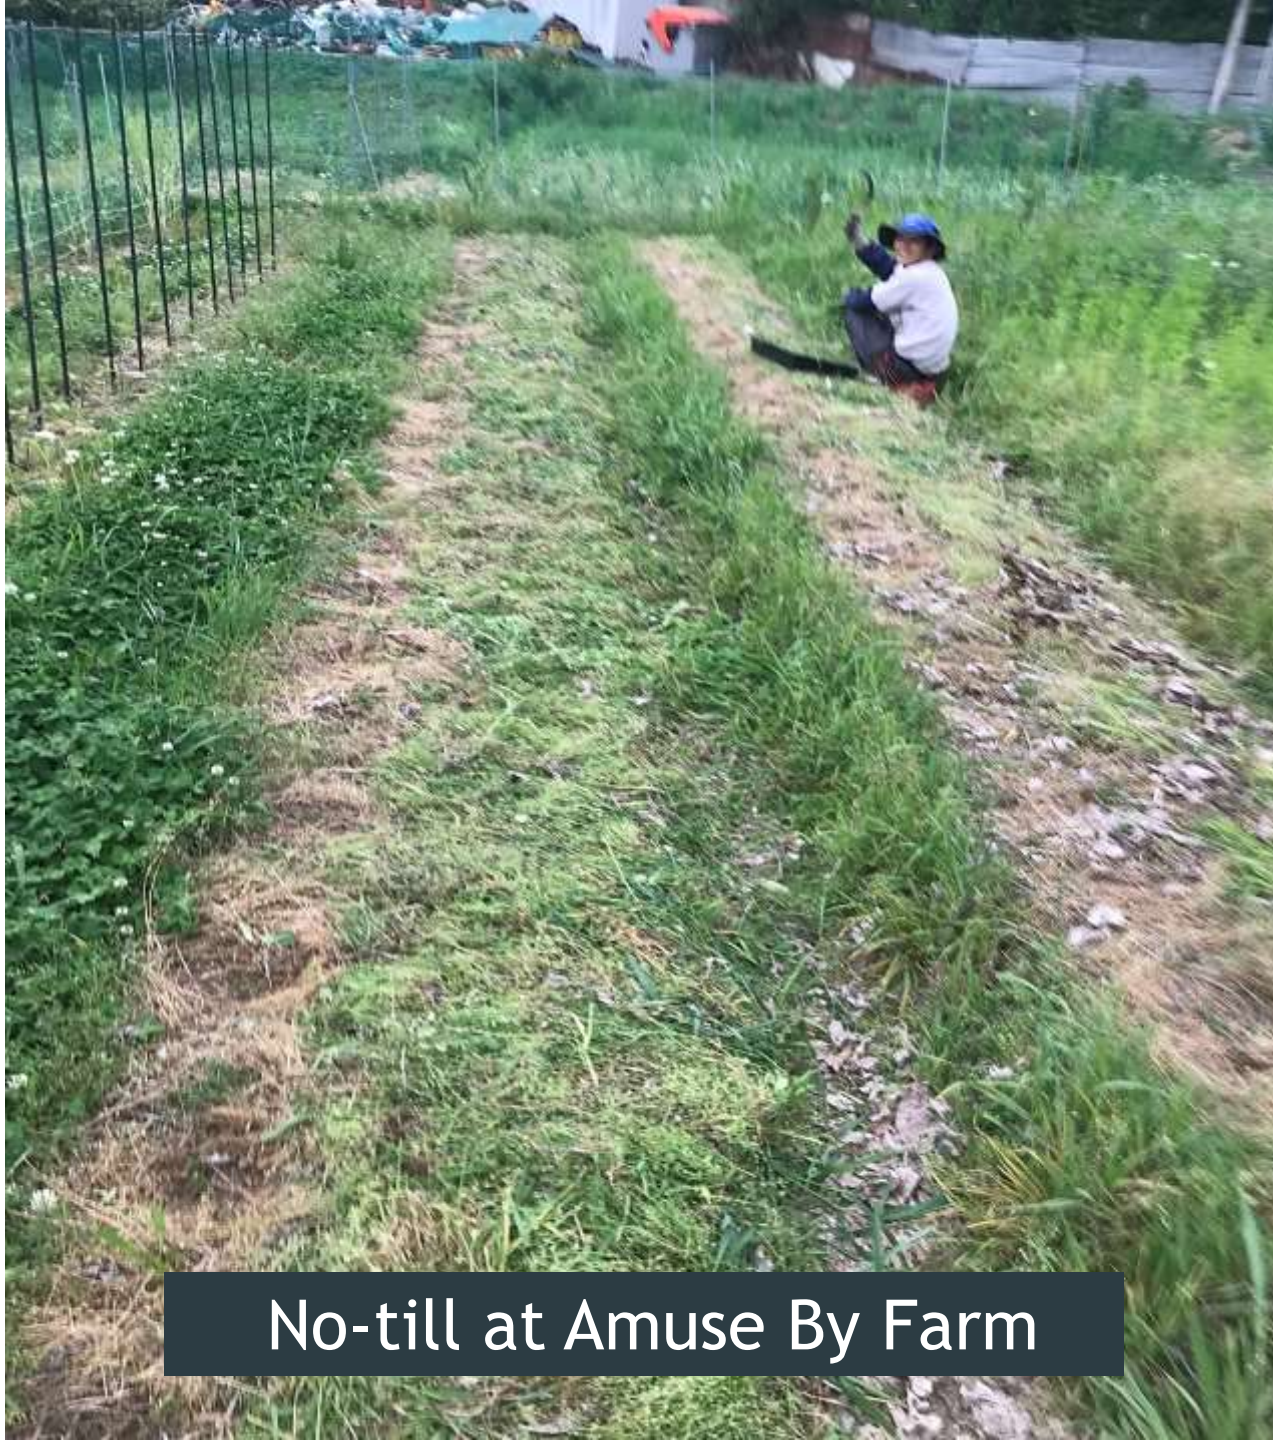

Delivery service

Kuro Neko

No-till at Amuse By Farm

Amuse By Farm in summer

Natural Farming methods

Fukuoka's
"Natural Farming"
vs. traditional Korean
Natural Farming

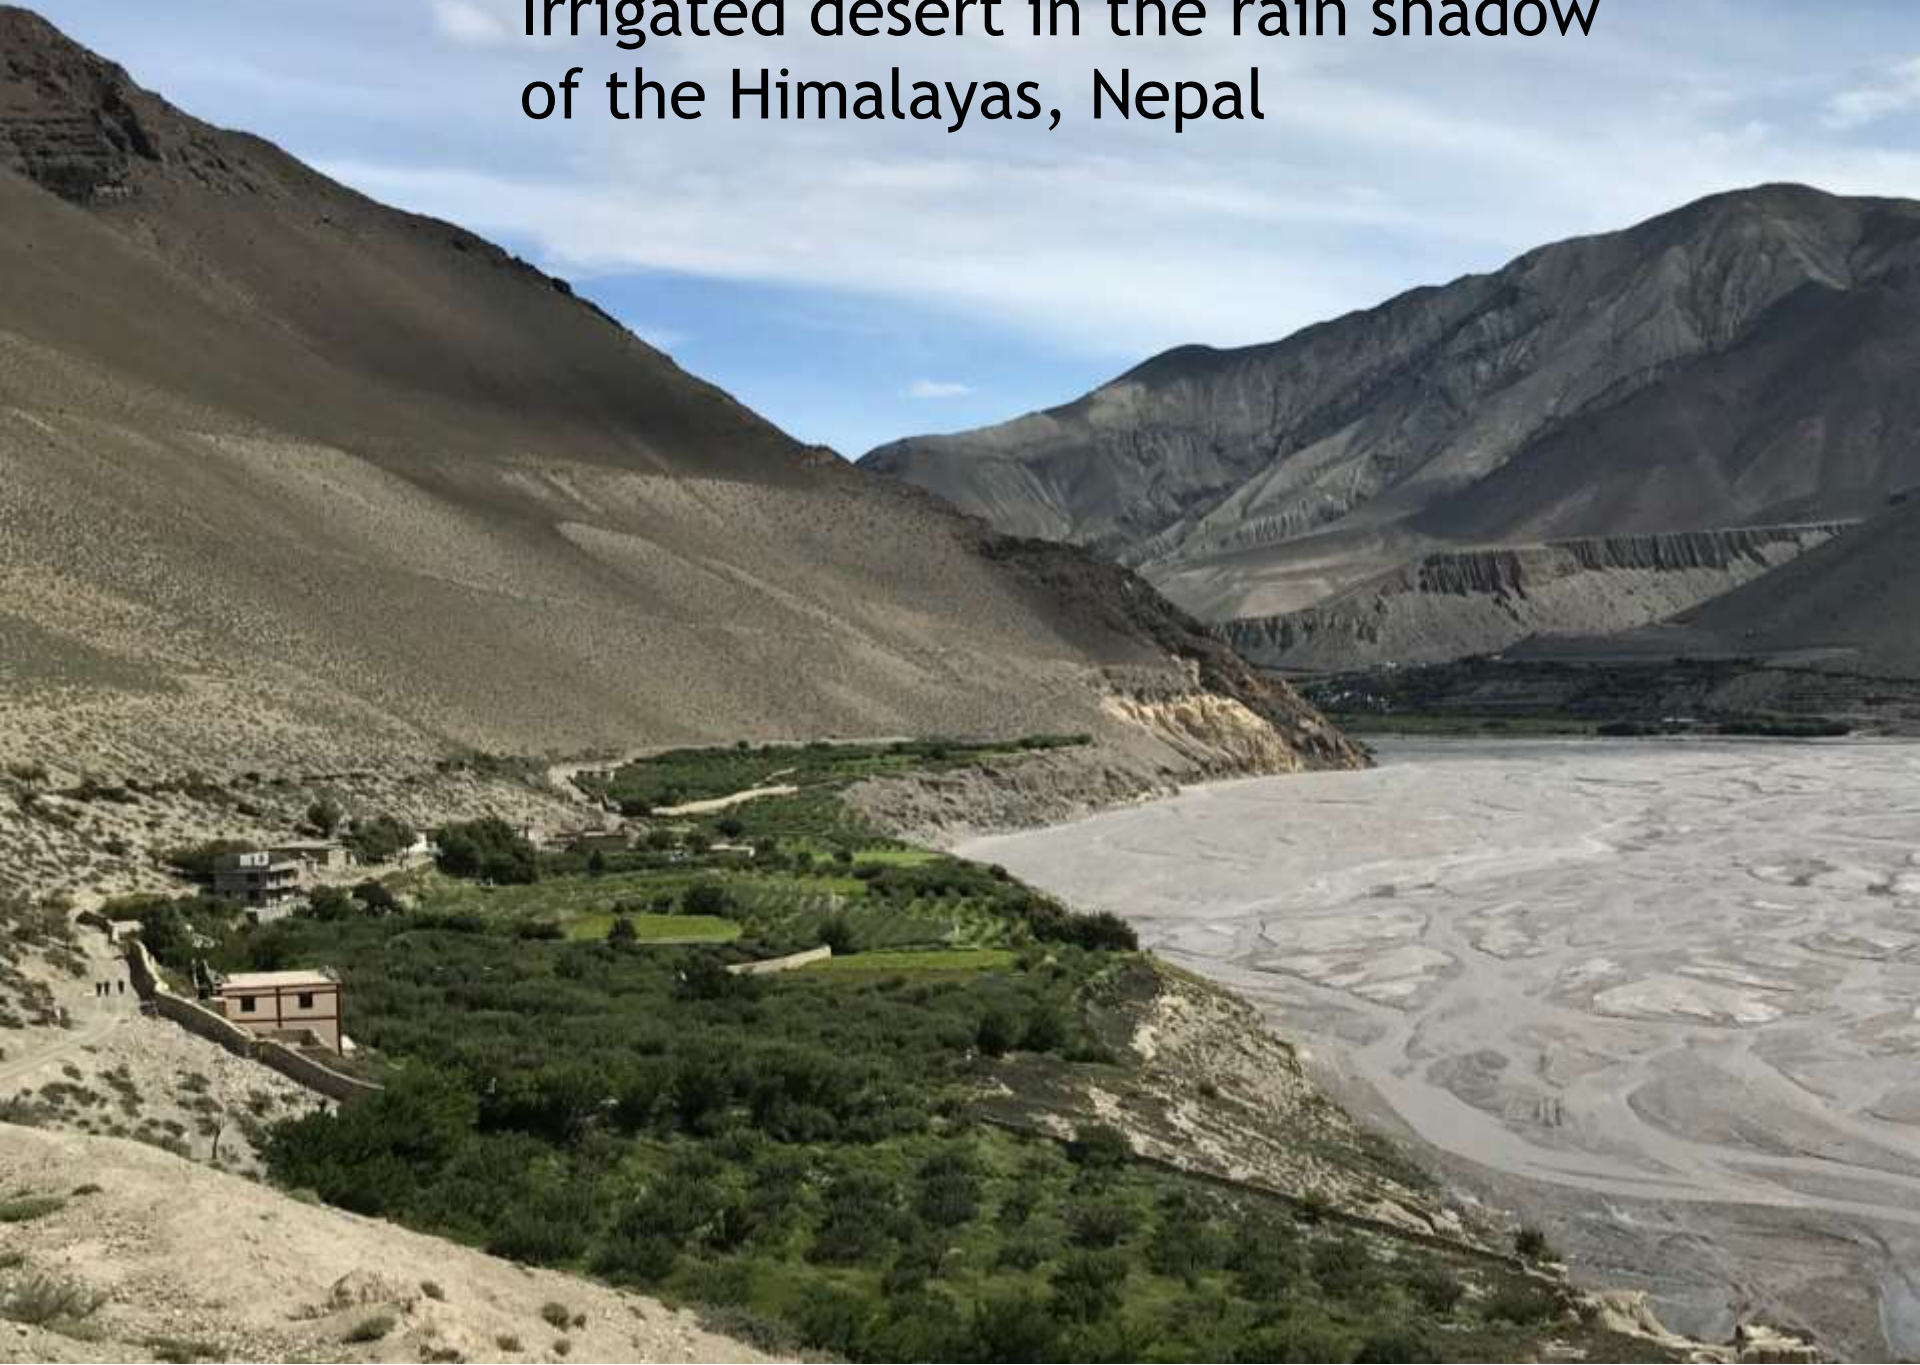

June onion harvest

June potato harvest

Irrigated desert in the rain shadow of the Himalayas, Nepal

Sloping contour beds, Sulawesi Indonesia

Maiko from Tanadui Farm harvesting sweet potatoes

The end

