

POWER UP

Meeting This Moment Together

How can we remain resourced, connected, and purposeful amid ecological loss and political uncertainty? Join Jess Serrante and Stephen Posner, for an engaging event exploring how we experience this moment—and how attention, story, and community can sustain meaningful and creative action. Through discussion, collective sense-making and a guided community practice inspired by the work of Joanna Macy, participants will explore how to turn our attention toward the outcomes we want, without negating the dangers we face or bypassing into a naive kind of hope.
