Boston University

Justice Media

Computational Journalism Co-Lab

Boston, MA

Partnership

The co-Lab makes up an interdisciplinary program that focuses on training journalism students in computer programing and data science. The program focuses on using these skills for investigative journalism with an emphasis on justice and transparency.

Lead faculty

Brooke Williams, brooke@bu.edu

Websites

Justice Media Co-Lab

Collaborators

The Bay State Banner

The Boston Globe

The New England Center for Investigative Reporting

Students

16,300 at Boston University

Up to 15 students in the partnership, per semester

Faculty/staff

Faculty assist in teaching the students the skills of data journalism and assist students as they create content for media partners.

Funding sources

Two PIT UN Grants and BU HUB