Frequently Asked Questions

How much can I get?

It depends on a couple of different factors including income, household size, and expenses. A single eligible person could get up to $194 a month to put towards groceries.

Where can I use 3SquaresVT? Can I use these benefits to buy a meal plan on campus?

You can use 3SquaresVT anywhere EBT and 3SquaresVT benefits are accepted including many grocery stores, convenience stores, farmers markets, and co-ops. Benefits can be used in any state. However, they cannot be used to purchase a meal plan on campus or to purchase hot prepared foods.

Can I get 3SquaresVT benefits if I live in a dorm?

If you live on campus and eat more than half of your meals from a student meal plan on campus, you do not qualify for 3SquaresVT.

Does my financial aid count as income when I'm applying for 3SquaresVT?

Federal financial aid (Perkins and Federal Direct loans, and Pell Grants) do not count as income. Any state or private loans/grants used for education-related expenses are also excluded and not counted as income.

I live with roommates, can I get 3SquaresVT?

You can apply for 3SquaresVT on your own if you have roommates but you purchase and prepare your meals separately. If you purchase and prepare most of your meals with your roommates, you have to apply for 3SquaresVT with your roommates and they must also meet eligibility guidelines.

Can I get 3SquaresVT if I live at home with my parents?

If you are 18-22 you can apply for 3SquaresVT with your family but you cannot apply on your own, even if you purchase and prepare meals separately. If you are 22 or older and purchase and prepare meals on your own, you can apply separately for 3SquaresVT.

Can I get 3SquaresVT if I'm an international student?

If you are an international student, you do not qualify for 3SquaresVT.
