

ENGLISH AND FTS STUDENT RESEARCH SYMPOSIUM
APRIL 10, 2024, 9 AM-4 PM
(IN PERSON IN JOHN DEWEY LOUNGE, OLD MILL)

To all English and Film & Television Studies majors and minors, Reporting and Documentary Storytelling minors, Speech & Debate, and CESS English concentrators:

Applications for the Spring 2024 English and FTS Student Research Symposium are now open!

Come join a supportive community of students and professors and share one of your greatest works, written or filmed!

IMPORTANT DATES

SUBMISSIONS

Proposal abstracts for Symposium papers are due by 4:30 PM on Friday, March 8, 2024, and should be sent to English@uvm.edu with subject line: "English & FTS Symposium Submission."

Decisions will be made on Friday, March 22, 2024.

WORKSHOPS

There will be a Teams Abstract Workshop for preparing proposal abstracts, as well as addressing any question you might have on the Symposium, on Tuesday, March 5, 2024, 7:00 PM.

To back this up, and for students who cannot attend the Team Abstract Workshop, there will be a FAQ session ("office hours for proposals") for interested students at Dr. Sean Witters's office (323 Old Mill) on Thursday, March 7, 2024.

Specific time on March 7 "office hours" and Teams link for March 5 Abstract Workshop forthcoming soon!

Presentation Workshop for accepted student presenters will be held during the first week of April.

FAQs

- * You do not need to say what class you did the work in.
- * You may form and submit a group proposal. (3-4 students)
- * You may submit any previously-unsubmitted work from Spring 2023 through Spring 2024 classes.
 - * You may submit a work from no class.
- * You may submit more than one proposal, but only one per student max will be accepted.

The UVM Writing Center can help you with your Symposium proposal!
Go to <https://www.uvm.edu/undergradwriting/appointments>.

For other questions, please email Prof. Eric Lindstrom at eric.lindstrom@uvm.edu.