Fall 2021 Internship for Credit

TASK: Historical data collection and creation of maps & graphics for the Burlington Reparations Taskforce

DESCRIPTION: Dr. Elise A. Guyette has begun historical research into the Federal Census reports for Burlington, VT (1790–1940) and in City Directories to discover where people of color lived in the city and what types of occupations/wealth people had. The results may or may not point to de facto geographic segregation and discrimination in the work place. The data will be presented on maps and in other types of graphics to illuminate the findings for the Taskforce.

The intern will work on data collection, mapmaking, and graphics creation. The person chosen needs to be at least a junior and be exacting in collecting and recording data in excel. This person will have experience in GIS and making layered maps. S/he/they will have the skills needed to illustrate data in creative ways, be an author of the report and part of the team presenting details to the Taskforce in February 2022.
