Teaching

The University of Vermont

Associate Professor, 1997-present

With Alan Wertheimer, I developed a proposal for a yearlong first-year class to be taken by all incoming honors students from across the university. The proposal was accepted over several competitors. We developed a syllabus, and the course was run for four years. We also created and ran UVM’s first Faculty Summer Institute, a three-day seminar on ethics, giving selected faculty from around the university a sample of the course material.
