THE UNIVERSITY OF VERMONT
LYMAN J. GOULD LECTURE SERIES

A public lecture by

Jeffrey Segal

Motivated Cognition on the Bench: Does Criminal Egregiousness influence Judges’ Decisions in Search and Seizure Cases?

Jeff Segal is SUNY Distinguished Professor of Political Science at Stony Brook University. He is a prolific scholar with expertise in judicial processes and behavior, American politics, and methodology. In addition to the many best paper, best book, and lasting contributions commendations that have been awarded to his research, Dr. Segal was a 2011-2012 Guggenheim Foundation grant winner. In 2018, the Law and Courts Section of the American Political Science Association awarded Dr. Segal their Lifetime Achievement Award, in recognition of a “lifetime of significant scholarship, teaching, and service to the Law and Courts field.” In his public lecture, Dr. Segal will be discussing his recent research examining the extent to which judges exhibit cognitive biases in deciding whether or not to admit challenged evidence in a criminal trial.

Monday, October 15, 2018
3:30 to 5:00 p.m.
Memorial Lounge, Waterman

Sponsored by the Department of Political Science

ADA: Individuals with disabilities requiring accommodations, call Conference and Events at (802) 656-5665