

Established in 2005, FERC is dedicated to developing a community of scholars interested in conducting research to further our understanding of family enterprises and creating usable knowledge in this field. The goals of FERC include:

- Building usable knowledge on family enterprises;
- Challenging scholars to enhance the rigor, relevance, and reach of research; and
- Creating partnerships among and between scholars and practitioners focused on family business issues.

The 2019 conference will focus on the role of family firms in social and sustainable innovation. In its 1987 report entitled Our Common Future, the World Commission on Environment and Development defined sustainability as “the development that meets the needs of the present without compromising the ability of future generations to meet their own needs.” This definition places family enterprises as natural conduits to carry on this global mission as transgenerational equity lies at the core of these enterprises.

This commitment affects and is affected by organizational goals, strategies, corporate and family governance, human resource management, and virtually every sub-field of business and management. Considering the importance of social and sustainable innovation for family enterprises, surprisingly little is known about social entrepreneurship, sustainability strategies and practices of these enterprises. This conference aims to explore and discuss related issues.

FIVE types of submissions are invited for FERC 2019:

1. Poster Sessions – a highly popular FERC staple!

SUBMISSION GUIDELINES:

1) Poster Sessions in English or Spanish (on June 1st)
   - No more than five pages, excluding references and tables (Microsoft Word document).
   - Double-spaced with one-inch margins in 12-point font, using APA (6th edition) for references.
   - Submitted abstracts must include the following: purpose of the project, gap in the literature, importance of addressing the gap, manner in which this project addresses the gap in the literature, methodology used in this research project, summary of the results, implications of the findings for research and practice.

2) Paper Development Workshop in English (on May 31st)
   A limited number of papers/authors will be eligible to participate in a paper development workshop. The most promising full-length manuscripts (maximum of 35 pages all-inclusive) submitted to the conference will be considered for this session. Only papers that have not been accepted for publication elsewhere will be considered. The submitting author must be the primary author (not a second, third, etc.) of the paper and must be willing to provide developmental feedback for one other paper/author as part of this session. Please consider submitting the best paper that you are moving toward publication.

All submissions will be blind reviewed by members of the FERC 2019 Review Board. Accepted abstracts and papers will be presented in poster format at the FERC conference.

Submit all abstracts and full-length manuscripts at https://openconf.org/ferc/

Please see separate calls for  Research Seminar for Doctoral Students & Junior Faculty;  Professional Development Workshops; and Lifetime Influence & Achievement Awards.
Schedule. This exclusive seminar will be held at the Grossman School of Business, University of Vermont, with a tentative schedule as follows:

Thursday, 30 May 8:30 am - 5:30 pm (Research Seminars 1 – 4)
Friday, 1 June 8:30 am - 10:00 am (Paper Development Session)

Preparation and Seminar Requirements. Different from other doctoral or junior faculty consortia you may have attended, the FERC Research Seminar will be a reading-intensive seminar where renowned scholars from family business will lead sessions that are much like traditional doctoral seminars. A list of readings for each seminar session will be provided with acceptance letters.

To capitalize on this opportunity, students must complete the readings ahead of time. In the weeks preceding this one-day intensive session, students will read a set of articles and prepare notes of their reading. The notes will consist of brief article summaries and at least two discussion questions per session. This will ensure the readings are completed in advance. The notes and questions submitted will be used to formulate discussion questions and other course planning. Please plan to submit reading notes and discussion questions electronically as follows:

- May 9, 2019, 5 PM EDT Session 1 and 2 Notes
- May 16, 2019, 5 PM EDT Session 3 and 4 Notes

Seminar Leaders. Family business scholars who will be leading sessions include:

- Jim Chrisman, Mississippi State University, USA
- Mike Hitt, Texas Christian Univ. & Texas A&M Univ., USA
- Jim Combs, University of Central Florida, USA
- Peter Jaskiewicz, University of Ottawa, Canada
- Isabelle Le Breton-Miller, HEC Montreal, Canada
- Danny Miller, HEC Montreal, Canada
- Mattias Nordqvist, Jönköping University, Sweden
- Thomas Zellweger, University of St. Gallen, Switzerland

Manuscript for Paper Development Session. Participants will also participate in a paper development session where each student will be paired with a leading scholar. Thus, each participant must submit a working paper (either PDF or Word format) that is focused on family business. You should be the primary author (not a second or third) and you should consider submitting the best paper that you are moving toward publication.

IMPORTANT NOTE: The paper must be a full manuscript but NOT (a) exceed 35 pages (all inclusive), or (b) be an accepted-for-publication or published manuscript. The working paper is a key requirement for admission. If you would like this paper to be considered for presentation during a conference poster session, it must be submitted through the traditional conference submission process as well (see call for papers).

SUBMISSION PROCESS:
A submission package (submitted as a single PDF file) must include the following three documents and should be sent via an e-mail attachment in PDF format to daniel.holt@msstate.edu:

1. Cover page with following information:
   - Personal information to include: (a) Name; (b) Email address; and, (c) Best contact phone number
   - University:
   - Department:
   - Primary Advisor:
   - Doctoral degree – completed in / expected competition: _______ (year)
   - Demographics (optional): _____ Female _____ Male  Nationality: __________________

2. A 600-900 words essay indicating why you would like to be involved and family business topics of most interest to you.

3. A full-length manuscript (max 35 pages all-inclusive) that has not been accepted for publication. Submitting author must be the primary author (not a second or third etc.). Consider (a) submitting the best paper that you are moving toward publication and (b) submitting it for presentation during a conference poster session through the traditional conference submission process (see call for papers).

Cost: $125 USD for the Research Seminar. This covers all meals including dinner with seminar leaders and paper development workshop mentors. Students are responsible for their own travel and accommodations. Registration will be available through the FERC 2019 website.

Readings
Consistent with its mission to increase the quality and rigor of family business research, the Family Enterprise Research Conference (FERC) is pleased to announce it will begin accepting NEW submissions in the form of professional development workshops (PDW). Patterned after the highly successful and valuable PDWs sessions held at the Academy of Management annual meeting, FERC will set aside a limited number of sessions (either 90 or 120 minutes) devoted to the professional development of family business scholars.

Proposed PDWs should benefit family business scholars regardless of their career stage. Proposals for sessions which teach new skills or provide unique developmental experiences are encouraged. PDWs are not meant to substitute for the conference’s traditional research/poster sessions. Instead, PDWs should be innovative in their content and structure, explore cutting edge issues, and encourage interactions among participants that are not normally part of the current FERC experience.

A wide variety of session structures are possible, including workshops, breakout sessions, tutorials, or panels. Submitters should strongly consider the structure of the session and think about how ideas, knowledge, and relationships among the participants are best fostered. Sessions that engage attendees, facilitate exchange, and encourage continued interaction among participants (beyond the conference) are especially encouraged.

Proposals will be evaluated based on several criteria, including the anticipated benefit to attendees, the number of attendees likely to be interested in the topic, and the quality of the plan for creating an interactive and engaging session.

SUBMISSION PROCESS:

A submission package (submitted as a single PDF file) must include the following information:

1. A one-page vita from the PDW organizer(s) and from all other participants responsible for the content and delivery of the PDW session.

2. A brief overview (no more than five page, double-spaced proposal) that details: (1) the topic and its importance to family business scholars; (2) the structure/format/timeline of the session (i.e., how will the time be used), (3) the intended objectives of the session. Any special requests in terms of set-up, equipment, etc. should be included in the proposal.

Submission of Professional Development Workshop proposals should be emailed directly to Donald Neubaum at dneubaum@fau.edu.
