Academic Proposal Writing

Monday February 12th, 2018
9am – 10:30am
Current RSENR graduate students Sonya Ahamed, Lindsay (Bar) Barbieri and Brendan O’Brien will share their tips, tricks and adventures for how to create an academic proposal, which is a requirement for all our research-based graduate students.

Publishing with Professor Aimee Classen

Monday February 26th, 2018
9am – 10:30am
From getting started to wrangling co-authors to understanding what happens behind the scenes at a journal — this workshop will discuss the writing process. Come with questions about any part of the manuscript writing process.

Science Writing Panel

Thursday, March 8th, 2018
11:30 am – 1pm, Aiken 311
Join Professors Tony D’Amato and Marla Emery, as well as RSENR grads Bess Perry and Kim Coleman as they discuss the intricacies of scientific writing.

Life After your Masters

Monday, April 2nd, 2018
10:30 – 12 Aiken 311
Current and former RSENR grads will discuss their life paths and the variety of options available to graduating MS students. Whether to obtain a PhD or transition into the job market, advice will be provided for different pathways.

Life After your PhD

Monday, April 9th, 2018
3-4:30 Aiken 103
Professors Kris Stepenuck, Rachelle Gould and Dr. Anjanette DeCarlo will discuss options following completing your PhD. Whether you intend to pursue a future in academia or opportunities in the private or government sector, insight and advice will be available.

How to Write a Research Statement for Interviews

Wed., April 25th 9:30-11 Aiken 311
The research statement is a common component of an academic job application and requires style and vision! Drs.Walter Poleman, and Eric Roy and post-doc Jane Foster will help you strategically summarize your research and the future direction of your work.