The University of Vermont Cancer Center is coordinating this limited competition funding opportunity.

The Damon Runyon Cancer Research Foundation recently announced the Clinical Investigator Award, a limited competition award (see the description at https://www.damonrunyon.org/for-scientists/application-guidelines/clinical-investigator, with a deadline of February 1, 2017.

The Clinical Investigator Award provides a $450,000 three-year award developed in partnership with the National Institutes of Health (NIH) and the National Cancer Institute (NCI) to support early career physician-scientists whose focus is on the translation of basic science discoveries into practical therapies. Requirements include mentor or co-mentor from NCI or another NIH Institute and an 80% time commitment for patient-oriented research (including epidemiologic & behavioral studies and outcomes & health services research).

If you are interested in applying, please contact Ed North at edward.north@uvm.edu no later than January 3, 2017.
