Do the results you heard about earlier ring true to what you have seen or discussed with growers?

What are the key practices that remain unadopted based on OFRRs and inspections?

Are there big food safety risks you are seeing out on farms that are not being captured that concern you?

What are they?

What are the likely barriers to adoption?
(NECAFS & LFSC needs assessment review).

Why are growers not doing the “easy” stuff?

Are we seeing inconsistency in terms of inspection and education?

What are some things we can do about this?

What are some of the gaps in enforcement and inspection?

What are specific next steps and who is going to do them?

What are the three educational materials you would most like to see developed?
