After 6 years of Teaching

“Preventive Controls for Human Food”

January 2022

Donna F. Schaffner

Director of Food Safety, QA & Training Programs

Six years in...

Over the past 6 years we taught numerous classes of Preventive Controls for Human Food (PCHF) at the FIC for people to earn their PCQI certificate (Preventive Controls Qualified Individual).

- In the first couple of years, it was mostly PCHF classes with a greatly reduced demand for HACCP classes...
 - Only so much time and $$$ available for training
- For the past couple of years, we've taught more HACCP classes than PCHF classes
 - Demand for PCQIs has largely been met, but third-party audits are still asking for a “recent HACCP certificate” for the people in charge of Food Safety in food processing facilities

How can Instructors save on costs?

Order books from Amazon...

- Use an Amazon-Prime account for free shipping
- Save on shipping costs which have been getting higher and higher!

Should you ask students to order/pay direct for Amazon books?

- Will they actually purchase a book?
 - Issues with teaching classes with no book for the student to reference...
- Does the book arrive in-time for class?
 - Getting people to sign-up ahead-of-time is ALWAYS an issue!

What's happening in 2022...

Bob Brackett no longer at IFSH (now a private consultant)

Jason Wan interim Director of FSPCA Advisory Board

- Hiring committee --> new Director --> new Manager to oversee FSPCA

After PCHG Updates completed:

- Instructors will be required to attend an online refresher course (minimal cost) to retain LI status
- “Live Virtual” training approvals will continue due to COVID variants
- More language translations and additional curriculums will be updated
- LI “audits” by the FSPCA will continue, based on student evaluations

FDA's NEW ERA of Tech-enabled Traceability and enhanced Food Safety

Audits assessing your “Food Safety Culture”, GFSI Audits coming closer to FSMA rules, except for still requiring HACCP & HACCP training...

What's happening in Food Safety Training for 2022...

Does anyone think that they will go back to teaching in-person classes?

- Will companies PAY for employees to travel to get training, now that we've proven we can deliver training in a VIRTUAL format?

If you go back to in-person training, will you change pricing between virtual and in-person, to cover catered food & snacks?

- Must consider soaring food costs, lack of personnel to cater or help set-up/clean-up

Good luck in your teaching endeavors!
