Policy Statement

It is an essential goal of the University of Vermont to promote and seek to provide a safe learning, living, working, and campus environment for its community members and visitors. Threats or acts of violence involving both persons and personal or University property are therefore prohibited and constitute cause for removal from campus, discipline through appropriate channels, and/or civil or criminal prosecution.

In a possible or actual emergency situation, administrators, faculty, and staff (“employees”) must report threats or acts of violence immediately to UVM Police Services. Students are also strongly encouraged to make such reports. Any form of retaliation against a person for making a good faith report is prohibited and may itself provide a basis for disciplinary action.

Reason for the Policy

The purpose of the policy is to establish standards of conduct and protocols designed to protect the health, safety, and welfare of University community members and campus visitors and to preserve the safety of campus and University facilities, all in furtherance of the institutional mission.

Applicability of the Policy

This Policy applies to all University students, faculty, staff, campus visitors, and University vendors and contractors on University premises and at University-sponsored events. If a University policy more specifically addresses the conduct in issue (e.g., sexual assault), the more specific policy overrides this policy (see “Related Policies” below).

Procedures

 Threat Assessment Teams

When a report is made to UVM Police Services regarding any perceived threat to personal or campus safety, Police Services will evaluate and respond to the incident through the exercise of reasonable professional judgment in light of the specific facts and circumstances surrounding the incident. The UVM Chief of Police Services or designee or any member of the threat assessment team may convene a team comprised of appropriate University professionals to assist in assessing the threat and recommending an appropriate course of action to responsible officials. A threat assessment team may also be convened by request of an appropriate administrator or on request of a team member.

The assessment and response team for incidents or situations involving students may include, but is not necessarily limited to, representatives from the Counseling Center, Center for Health and Well-Being, including medical and psychological professionals, Department of Residential Life, Dean of Students’ Office, Police Services, and the General Counsel’s Office.

The assessment and response team for incidents or situations involving employees may include, but is not necessarily limited to, the representatives from Human Resources Services, Employee Assistance Program, Center for Health and Well-Being, Police Services, and the General Counsel’s Office.

The Assessment and Response Process

Team personnel shall be guided by their reasonable professional judgment in the discharge of their responsibilities as team members. Foremost guiding their work will be the immediate safety needs of the person who is the subject of an apparent or actual threat, and the conduct of the person allegedly, or demonstrated to be, making the threat. If an investigation may lead to disciplinary action or suspension/leave for medical reasons, the matter will be referred to customary channels applicable to student or personnel actions as otherwise established by University policy or collective bargaining agreements.

The team is also responsible for communicating on a need-to-know basis with the Dean of Students’ Office and/or supervisory personnel, as well as monitoring of the situation after the immediate crisis has passed.

Complaint or Grievance

Students

A student dissatisfied with the response to his/her report of a threat may address one’s concerns in writing to the Dean of Students’ Office or, if the student believes that one is facing an imminent threat to one’s personal safety, the student should immediately contact Police Services. A student who wishes to appeal any discipline imposed as a result of being found responsible for threatening the safety of a member or members of the University community, should follow the appeal procedures found in the Code of Student Conduct.
Faculty or staff members

A faculty or staff member dissatisfied with the response to one’s report of a threat may address one’s concerns in writing to the Provost and Senior Vice President for appropriate action or, if the individual believes that she or he is facing an imminent threat to one’s personal safety, the individual should immediately contact Police Services. A faculty or staff member who wishes to appeal any discipline imposed may grieve the discipline through the appropriate institutional channels, including (as applicable) procedures established in collective bargaining agreements or the Complaint Resolution and Grievance Policy and Procedures.
