Title: UVM Travel Policy Addendum: Spring 2022 Guidelines for Review and Approval of University Travel by UVM Students, Faculty, and Staff

Policy Statement

The President's June 15, 2020, memo, subsequently accepted by the Board of Trustees, stated that travel is restricted, and only essential research and University business travel will be approved on a case by case basis.

Reason for the Policy Addendum

This addendum to the existing UVM Travel Policy offers guidelines for allowable domestic and international travel for academic and UVM business purposes. While these activities are an important part of the academic life of the institution, the current global pandemic requires that travel rules be carefully reviewed and considered. The policy statements and chart below offer guidance on both academic and administrative travel for students, faculty, and staff. The situation will be reviewed in February 2022, and summer 2022 guidelines will be issued at that time if needed, with the understanding that the situation is fluid and subject to change as the Vermont Governor's Office and Centers for Disease Control (CDC) requirements are updated. For this reason, students, faculty and staff should not purchase tickets for summer 2022 travel until updated guidelines are available. Should conditions improve, allowing a sooner update to the guidelines, this addendum will be revised and communicated accordingly. The policy of holding travel expenditures made on PurCards pending approval of all travel will continue until further notice.

Applicability of the Policy

This Policy and accompanying Procedures apply to all members of the University community, including, without limitation, individuals who are faculty, staff, students, contractors, consultants, temporary employees, and affiliates of the University.

Definition of Essential Travel

Essential travel is defined as:

- Travel/activities necessary to preserve the well-being of study participants (e.g., clinical trials where patient health is at risk if the travel activity is suspended).
- Travel/activities necessary to preserve critical research infrastructure (e.g., cell lines, vulnerable research equipment or collections, health-related equipment repair/maintenance).

- Travel-related sponsored research activities vital to project outcomes that would be permanently compromised by a delay and which cannot be performed by others already on site.
- Travel related to University business that is deemed essential for University functions/operations and has been approved by the designated Vice President.

Procedures

Travel approvers (Deans and Vice Presidents) should bear in mind that until further notice, approvals for exemptions from international travel restrictions are meant to be applied very conservatively.

Even where such exceptions apply, both travelers and approvers should keep in mind the COVID-19 disease conditions and requirements of the intended destination, and the impact of the necessary testing, quarantine and isolation for travelers on other work-related activities. Any mandatory isolation, quarantine, and testing requirements, and their impact on work activities, including teaching, research, or necessary on-campus work functions, should be weighed in the approval process.

Quarantine and Isolation Information: UVM follows current Vermont Department of Health quarantine and isolation requirements. Other states and international destinations may have additional requirements that UVM travelers must adhere to. UVM travelers who test positive for COVID-19 or who are identified as a close contact are required to follow all current quarantine, isolation, and testing requirements for both their travel destination, if any, and upon their return from out of state/international travel. In addition to state/international requirements, many airlines have additional requirements that travelers must comply with. More information about Vermont quarantine and testing requirements can be found at the State of Vermont "Protect Yourself and Others Website". The Vermont Department of Health has also provided additional information related to international travel.

Continuity of Operations: Supervisors should consider the impact on operations in the event an employee is unable to return to work after travel. When approving time off, supervisors should consider contingency plans such as alternative staffing, if such staffing is necessary and/or possible in the event an employee tests positive and is unable to return to work.

Student Travel:

1. In-state domestic travel is allowed.
2. Student essential out-of-state domestic travel (i.e., to complete a required academic program component or engage in essential research) may be allowed with approval of an appropriate Dean. In addition, student out-of-state domestic travel to reach and participate in a required or elective internship is allowed with the following approvals: no Dean's approval is required if the internship activity is taking place in the state of the student's permanent residence. A Dean's office letter of approval is required for all other out-of-state domestic internship travel, including travel out of state as part of an internship primarily located in Vermont.
3. Until further notice, other domestic travel outside of the state of Vermont will be allowed for University-sponsored or SGA/GSS sponsored extra-curricular activities only with Dean/VP approval.
4. Spring semester-length study abroad is being permitted for students who receive approval through the Office of International Education; not all destinations or programs are approved. Winter break travel study courses have been canceled. International Spring break travel study courses have been canceled; domestic Spring break travel study courses will be decided on a case by case basis. Information regarding summer break travel study courses will be communicated by January 31, 2022.

5. Graduate and medical students may seek an exception from the Dean of the Graduate College or the Associate Dean of Medical Education, respectively, for international travel related to essential research or to fulfill a required educational component of a graduate degree, or attend a conference or course deemed critical to the student's career development. In the case of any specific waiver requests, the University will adhere to the current (November 2019) guidelines regarding Review of International Travel Involving Students, which preclude travel to countries with non-COVID Level 4, and in most cases, Level 3 Department of State advisories, as well as recommendations from the Office of International Education on COVID-related conditions at the proposed destination(s).
6. Going forward, travel authorizations in PeopleSoft will be required for both international and any out-of-state domestic travel that includes an overnight stay for paid students engaging in University business. At least 14 days in advance of any travel, students or their program personnel must complete and submit a travel authorization in PeopleSoft, the University's accounting system. Travel must not begin without official authorization being given. If a student embarks on a trip or charges expenses for the trip without University approval, the student will be held personally responsible for expenses incurred (i.e., unauthorized charges will not be reimbursed, and if purchased on a PurCard, the unauthorized debt will need to be repaid).

Faculty, Postdoctoral Fellow, and Employee Travel:

1. Domestic research or University business travel, including travel for attendance at conferences, for faculty, staff, and postdoctoral fellows may only occur with the approval of the appropriate Dean, or Vice President. At least 14 days in advance of any travel, employees must complete and submit a travel authorization in PeopleSoft, the University's accounting system. Travel must not begin without official authorization being given. Travelers are responsible for understanding and adhering to any Vermont State quarantining or testing requirements related to such travel, which should not interfere with scheduled on-campus instruction or other essential job functions. As of May 14, 2021, Vermont no longer requires testing or quarantine for domestic, out-of-state travel.
2. International research or University business travel are available only through a specific exception approval process. This process is in place for rare cases of essential international travel. International travelers are responsible for complying with all quarantine and testing requirements of their destination country, and upon return to Vermont.
3. Going forward, travel authorizations in PeopleSoft will be required for both international and any out-of-state domestic travel that includes an overnight stay. At least 14 days in advance of any travel, employees must complete and submit a travel authorization in PeopleSoft. Travel must not begin without official authorization being given. If an employee embarks on a trip or charges expenses for the trip without University approval, the employee will be held personally responsible for expenses incurred (i.e., unauthorized charges will not be reimbursed, and if purchased on a PurCard, the unauthorized debt will need to be repaid).
4. Domestic out-of-state leisure travel policy for UVM employees. When planning domestic leisure travel, employees should be familiar with any current travel restrictions for Vermont and for their destination state and should also be familiar with public transportation rules. Employees should consult with the transportation company (i.e., airline, train, bus) with questions. In addition, employees should monitor the CDC's domestic travel guidance prior to traveling.
5. International travel. For both UVM travel and leisure travel, Vermont follows the CDC requirements for international travel which may include testing requirements prior to traveling by air. In the event of a positive test, the traveler will be unable to travel by air and will be prohibited from re-entering the United States until they have isolated for at least 10 days. Additional information on what to do if a traveler tests positive for COVID-19 can be found here.
6. Employees must consult with their supervisor and make a reasonable effort to schedule the travel so as to not disrupt unduly the University's operations and to allow enough notice to the University to arrange alternative staffing, if such staffing is necessary and/or possible.

Faculty members with any designated in-person instructional assignments for spring 2022 courses will, in consultation with their supervisors, formulate clear plans for continuing to meet their responsibilities related to said assignments during the period of any mandated quarantine.

The following paragraphs primarily affect staff and faculty who are unable to work remotely:

Employees shall follow regular departmental procedures to request time off for travel. If the travel requires quarantine or testing upon return to Vermont, and the employee's job responsibilities are not conducive to telework, the employee's request for time off must include the quarantine/test results period. All time off must be approved in advance by the employee's supervisor.

If the request is approved, employees may use leave time to cover the quarantine period, which includes accrued vacation time, compensatory time, personal days, or cultural holidays. Employees may not use sick leave to cover a quarantine period necessitated by travel.

If the employee's request for time off is denied in whole or in part, any subsequent absence during the requested period of time off will be unauthorized and the employee will go without pay (unless required by law). Failure to follow these leave procedures or unauthorized absences will result in appropriate discipline.
