About Me!

I'm from Westchester, New York and majoring in Environmental studies. I love anything outdoors, especially the Centennial Woods here on campus. Some of my favorite things are going on walks, listening to music, drinking tea, and having a good laugh with my pals.

Why Vote for Me?

I am very passionate about making UVM a more environmentally conscious campus. Having worked in customer service for several years, I have experience in communications and problem solving. I also worked on a sustainable farm, dealing with food donation, composting, and ensuring sustainable agricultural practices.

Goals

Like many of us, I came to UVM under the impression that the university prioritized sustainability. Although efforts are being made, I quickly noticed the lack of composting and proper waste sorting in dining halls and dorms.

I Plan To:

• Address the excessive single-use plastics in campus retail locations such as the Redstone Market.
• Increase advertisement of the current composting system in dorms.
• Increase the amount of food scraps composted in dining halls by making bins more easily differentiable.
• Encourage switch to completely reusable silverware in dining halls.
